Do you know the soldier most urgently in need of a perfectly good one hundred dollar bill? If so, send name, address and facts. A citizen writes from New York, giving neither name nor address:

"And may my grave be covered with sweet clover and about it the music of the chirp of the cricket and the bobwhite—and at the head a tree, a dogwood, with a branch like a horseshoe.

"BYE-BYE-DA-DA."

The letter contained a small yellow envelope on which was written, "This is my ticket to the Demp. and Carp. fight. Will you give it to some soldier who you think needs it?

"SAME AS EVER."

Inside the envelope was no fight ticket, but a one-hundred-dollar bill, which the writer must give to some soldier in need. A million former soldiers need one hundred dollars. Which needs the money most urgently?

The New York Times, wobbling slightly on its "news fit to print" platform, publishes figures to show that a Mr. Stillman spent in short time $1,000,000 on a Mrs. Leeds. From the Times' list you learn that the rent of "love nests" is high, $45,000 a year, $17,500 more for re-decorating. But Mr. Stillman cannot claim anything like a record. Consider what Mark Antony spent and threw away on Cleopatra, or what Louis XIV spent on Versailles. That was a real "love nest" and $17,500 wouldn't redecorate one corner of it.

When the French king's young lady was anxious to go sleigh riding in Summer, the king had the Versailles roadways buried in salt, and took the lady sleighing in a Russian sleigh. That interested Frenchmen, on whom La Gabelle, the salt tax, rested heavily. It helped along the revolution. When some unborn Stillman shall bury Park avenue in granulated sugar, and take "little Jay" and his mother sleigh riding in August, then, and not until then, you will see "the right sort doing the thing," as the old sporting prints have it.

Marriages fell off in June almost everywhere in the United States. This means the loss to the world of many babies, the only real wealth, a loss that never can be replaced.

Lack of work and high rents are said to explain the trouble. But, married, two can live in one room instead of in two rooms, and there is plenty of room in the country. Rents ought not to stop marriage.

The county clerk of Indianapolis says licenses are being issued "only to persons with incomes or to the irresponsible class."

That need not hurt your feelings. You happened to get married in June and haven't an income. The father of Lincoln and the father of Napoleon would both be included in the irresponsible class.

Neither one amounted to anything as a provider; Lincoln didn't even have a house with a floor or a window in it. But those two marriages have attracted considerable attention.

The most important thing in marriage is the mother. The next important is her mental attitude toward her husband. If she thinks a great deal of him she will have good children. And wonderful is the capacity of woman for thinking well of some poor fish that does not deserve it.

Mr. Beach, whose stationery says he is president of something with $1,000,000,000, a good deal of money even for Bridgeport, Connecticut, with David and Goliath in mind, offers this:

"Let the United States say to Japan, 'Let aside your armaments, select your best man and stand him up against Dempsey. If he wins, your nation will be welcome to the United States on equality; if he fails, the door is closed.'"

Mr. Beach says this might save lives of millions. Only two would stand the brunt.

It is NOT a good idea. Plenty of men in Japan could beat Dempsey if trained to box as some of them are trained to wrestle. But that wouldn't mean anything. Many gorillas in the Gaboon country, single handed, could take care of Dempsey, Carpentier and any two Japanese with ease. But you would not, therefore, "admit gorillas to the United States on equality."

Dr. May T. Stout, able young scientific woman, returns from Servia, where she had been operating for cataract and other diseases of the eye. This lady, graduate of the University of Chicago, restored lost sight to seventeen hundred Serbians, performing as many as three hundred and fifty operations a month.

The interesting fact is that backward Serbian natives gave little credit to science, preferring to believe that Dr. Stout was simply "performing miracles." In the peasants' opinion you don't deserve much credit for that, for if you can perform a miracle all you have got to do is just perform it.

The credit goes above.

East Pepperell Chauffeur Defies His Enemies and Will Fight

East Pepperell, July 6.—Percy England, tarred and feathered because he, a married man, made love to a village belle, will defy his tormentors and remain here until they are punished.

England is half-dead from the beating, kicking, tarring and feathering that he received, but full of fight.

He insists that his intentions toward Miss Esther Robbins were perfectly honorable, despite the fact that he has a wife in "the old country."

The young woman strongly defends the victim of the attack and is understood to have declared she will testify for him.

He has taken steps to divorce his wife and plans to make an honorable offer of matrimony to Miss Robbins, whom he has courted rather openly of late.

He despises the suggestion that the disparity in their stations makes any difference.

Miss Robbins is a girl of some means, well born and of a leading family in the village. He is a chauffeur.

Meanwhile Miss Robbins' brothers, Roger S. Robbins and Professor Grover C. Robbins, are out on bail, charged with the tarring and feathering.

So is Isaiah R. Meredith, "gentleman farmer," friend of the Robbins family and alleged assistant in the attempt to "discipline" the too-ardent suitor. They were found guilty in Ayer District Court and appealed.

Tacit Truce Exists in South Ireland

London, July 6.—A tacit truce between the British and Sinn Fein has been in existence in South Ireland for the past fortnight.

Cities like Dublin, Cork and Limerick recently have seen a complete cessation of organized hostilities. General MacCready has been instructed to limit the activities of the military to the smallest possible range.

On the Sinn Fein side also concerted hostile measures are being held in abeyance apparently at the wish of Eamon de Valera.

MASKED MEN KILL FIVE IN IRISH TOWN

Dublin, July 6.—The tacit truce between the Sinn Fein and crown forces was broken at Newry, near Belfast, early today when five men were taken from their beds by armed masked men and shot to death. Two policemen were seriously wounded in an outbreak at Belfast. Sinn Feiners attacked a freight train at Pomeroy, burning sixteen cars.

London, July 6.—British officials today concentrated their efforts towards working out the basis for an armistice in Ireland.

Following a conference at Premier Lloyd George's official residence in Downing street, when General Jan Christian Smuts made a report, a communique was issued, saying:

"The conference was devoted to efforts of arriving at a modus operandi whereby hostilities will be suspended."

Premier Lloyd George will make a statement in Commons on the Irish situation tomorrow.

General Smuts, premier of South Africa, who is acting as mediator, will speak at the South African dinner tonight. His speech may deal with Ireland.

Malden Singer Says Football Star Failed to Keep Promise to Wed

Miss Mae Maher, pretty twenty-four-year-old daughte rof ex-Councilman and Mrs. John L. Maher of Malden, today started a $20,000 breach of promise suit against John J. Butler, former college football star, now instructor in Jordan High School in Lewiston, Me.

Butler, who has known Miss Maher since childhood, formerly lived at No. 738 Charles street, Malden.

The girl charges that he openly admitted to her that Christmas that another girl had come into his life, and that he intended to marry that girl because he needed the money."

Miss Mary Frances Murphey, also an instructor at the Jordan High School, is the "other girl," according to Miss Maher. She is understood to come from a wealthy family at Dover, N. H.

Miss Maher is a well known singer, a member of the choir of the Church of the Immaculate Conception in Malden and prominent in amateur theatricals. She lives at No. 45 Adams street, Malden, with her parents.

Butler was captain of the Malden High School football team in 1917, of the Bates College team in 1918 and of the Catholic University team in 1919.

"I had understood everything was all settled," said Miss Maher today. "I had my trousseau ready. Last Christmas, Mr. Butler stopped writing. I met him accidentally in church and he admitted he was paying attention to another girl."

The suit will be tried in East Cambridge.

Mrs. Catherine Carr Charges Assault by Patrolman Lockwood

Charging that she and her sister were attacked by Patrolman Lockwood of the East Dedham street station, Mrs. Catherine Carr of No. 480 Shawmut avenue complained of the officer to the secretary to Commissioner Curtis today.

Mrs. Carr showed a blackened and partially closed eye, which she said was a result of the treatment she received.

According to her story, Lockwood's alleged attack was made several nights ago, while she, her husband, her brother William McHugh, and her sister, Mrs. Florence Crawford, were standing in front of the Carr home.

Lockwood approached and began to revile the entire party, she charges.

She says he called them "drunken bums," and announced his intention of arresting them.

Mrs. Carr told him she had lived there ten years and was a respectable married woman.

Thereupon, according to her story, the officer struck her and also attacked her sister.

VICTIMS IN UKRAINE POGROMS

Central News Dispatch From Copenhagen Tells of Wholesale Massacre

By International News Service

London, July 6.—A hundred thousand Jews are reported to have been killed in new pogroms in Ukrainia, according to a Central News dispatch from Copenhagen this afternoon. The report, however, is without confirmation from any source.

Ukraine occupies the southern part of Eastern Europe and stretches roughly speaking from the river Ban in the west to the River Don in the east.

Before the World War the Ukrainians were split politically between Austria-Hungary and Russia.

The population is estimated at about 43,000,000.

The downfall of the czar in Russia and the crushing of Austria Hungary in the world war resulted in the founding of a republic by Ukraine. This new republic signed the treaty of Ukraine with Germany.

Home-Loving People Read Real Estate Ads

Most people are responsive to the land, the home or the farm appeal, because the "home building instinct" is the fourth strongest in our make-up.

Thinking, prosperous people are always interested in Real Estate announcements. And that's why The American always takes such pride in the success of this character of advertising.

There has almost ceased to be a season when people haven't a real buying interest in home propositions, whether in the city or in the suburbs, particularly when made through The American's columns. A faith due to the fact that The American is closed against all that are unworthy.

All of which explains why The American so successfully serves advertisers. Reader faith is synonymous with reader responsiveness — and reader responsiveness spells paying results.

TESTS 'HONOR AMONG THIEVES' BY ASKING RETURN OF GEMS

"Jimmy the Trusty" Appeals to Underworld to Restore $35,000 in Stolen Jewels

A unique test of the ancient adage that "there is honor among thieves" is being made by James Curran, alias "Jimmy the Trusty," a reformed convict and confidence man, in an effort to restore to the millionaire publisher and philanthropist, W. H. Donaldson, the $35,000 worth of jewels stolen from Mrs. Donaldson on a Shore Line train some days ago.

Curran has issued an open letter to "the underworld" appealing to the better nature of the crook who took the gems from the publisher's state room on the train.

"My theory," he says, "has been that crime is due largely to lack of useful training and unfortunate environment. I believe many men and women after committing a crime would, in the case of theft, be glad to restore the plunder if they could do so without fear of arrest.

"I am putting that theory to the test. Mr. Donaldson has aided many paroled convicts to re-establish themselves after leaving prison in good jobs, and I am therefore pleading with the underworld at large to aid me in finding and arranging for the restoration of the stolen gems. I want them to help me prove there is honor among thieves and all can be reached through sentiment when they cannot be reached through law."

Mr. and Mrs. Donaldson were on their way to the Pilgrim Tercentenary celebration at Plymouth when the jewels were taken, together with $325 in bank notes.

The jewelry included a pearl necklace, $15,000; five diamond rings, $12,000; a platinum bar pin, $3,000; a bracelet, $2,000, and a gun metal watch, $50.

Donaldson has offered a reward of $4,000.

LLOYD GEORGE TO DELAY U. S. TRIP

Engadine is a famous Swiss mountain resort.

GOMEZ FEARFUL OF TAMPICO REVOLT

Believes 20,000 Laborers Will Be Out of Work in Mexican Oil Fields

Mexico City, July 6.—General Gomez, commander of the Mexican military forces at Tampico, who came here to confer with President Obregon, said today that the Tampico situation was very grave.

Within a few days 20,000 laborers will be out of work as a result of the suspension of operations of oil companies in the Tampico fields, General Gomez declared.

A report is also being circulated that the Standard Oil Company intends to "boycott" the Mexican government and force smaller companies out.

The English oil companies, Gomez said, were continuing work and were paying the government the new export tax which some of the American companies have refused to pay.

General Gomez declared that when he returned to Tampico he would compel the oil companies to pay discharged workmen three months' pay, as provided by law.

A report that five American warships are en route for Tampico caused much excitement here, but the government calmed the populace by saying it had no information that the warships were coming into Mexican waters.

There was another report that the American government had sent a new note dealing with the oil situation, but this was officially denied at the foreign office.

ARMY MAY HAVE TO CLOSE CAMP DEVENS

Economy of War Department Threatens Post—Gen. Edwards Deplores Move

Camp Devens may be abandoned as a result of the economy drive of the War Department.

Though nothing definite could be learned, it was inferred from orders that Camp Devens might be included in the shakeup.

When General Edwards was asked about it he intimated that such a movement was doubtless being considered, but believed that it would be given up.

"This camp was first chosen by me because it represented a strategic position for New England," remarked the general.

We have been centering large bodies of troops at Hawaii and at Panama. The same reason which moved us to do this should govern us in preparing for the defence of New England.

If you study a map, you will see what Camp Devens means to this whole portion of the country. Without it we should be at a loss to handle properly troops in case of emergency.

"I should like to see the First Division of Camp Dix removed here, and I believe, after studying the problem, we will see that Camp Devens could be made to serve many purposes.

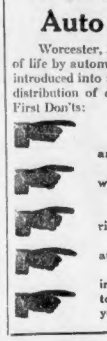
"Don'ts" for Children in Auto Safety Campaign

Worcester, July 6.—The State drive to lessen the loss of life by automobile accidents in Massachusetts has been introduced into the various Worcester playgrounds by the distribution of circulars containing the following Safety First Don'ts:



Don't run in front of an auto.
Don't play in the streets where autos are passing.
Don't chase a playmate from the sidewalk into the street.
Don't catch on behind a motor truck.
Don't take hold of a motor truck while riding a bicycle.
Don't run out from behind a standing auto, street car or ice cart.
When you cross a street use the crossing when possible and always look first to the left and then to the right. Help younger children who are careless.

61 Killed by Automobiles in June; 29 of Them Children

Sixty-one people were killed by autos in this State last month. Of that number twenty-nine were children.

State Registrar of Motor Vehicles Frank A. Goodwin today announced that the June record of killings was exceeded only last October when eighty-one lives were taken in the death toll.

Every one of the six autolats whose licenses were today revoked by Goodwin was charged with operating while under the influence of liquor. Three of them appealed the decisions by the lower courts, but in every instance Goodwin followed the law, which says their licenses must be taken away until their guilt or innocence is finally established by the courts.

He also suspended two other autolats whom he had reason to believe had taken liquor before driving their cars.

The day's list of revocations and suspensions was as follows:

'AUTOS MADE OF COTTON, RUN BY COAL DUST'

Babson Sees Them as the Only Solution of Motor Depression

Automobiles made of cotton and operated on power generated from coal dust may be running around Boston in the not-too-distant future.

Roger W. Babson, Wellesley Hills statistician and observer of many things, made this astonishing prediction to a Chicago interviewer.

He added that until some such innovation was made the automobile business would continue to suffer depression.

"The use of power generated from coal dust has passed the experimental stage" said Mr. Babson.

"Up to now the principal factor in the decline of the auto industry has been the steadily mounting price of gasoline.

"The cost of manufacture and maintenance must be cut down. The answer is lighter cars.

"Steel is too heavy. Aluminum is too expensive. The ultimate material may be a composition of cotton, glue and formaldehyde."

STEAL DIAMONDS WORTH $175,000 FROM TRAIN

New York Jeweler Robbed of Handbag Left Under Pullman Seat

New York, July 6.—The theft of $175,000 worth of diamonds on a Pennsylvania railroad train between this city and Trenton, N. J., was reported to the police today by Joseph Haskell, a jewel merchant of No. 65 Maiden lane.

Haskell, who lives at the Continental Hotel, was on his way to Pittsburgh on a selling trip through the Middle West. The diamonds were loose and were carried in a small handbag.

He said that after boarding a train at the Pennsylvania station he handed his suit case and the handbag to a porter to put under his seat while he stood on the train shed platform, smoking a cigar. He went to the smoking car when the train pulled out, and it was not until Trenton was reached that he thought to reassure himself that the precious stones must be all right down. He looked under the seat and found the handbag was gone.

The porter said he had seen no one taking anything from the seat. Haskell continued to Philadelphia, where he notified railroad police. He said that he thought that the bag had been stolen by someone leaving the train at Trenton. From Philadelphia he hurried back to New York and, after giving a description of the gems, left to assist the authorities in Trenton.

"STONE WOMAN" PREFERS CHAIR TO HAVEN OF INSANITY

MRS. KABER TO ADMIT PARESIS

Wins Fight to Bar Women From Jury; 12 Men Chosen to Decide Her Fate

Courthouse, Cleveland, O., July 6—A jury to try Mrs. Catherine Eva Kaber, alleged arch conspirator in the murder plot which resulted in the death of her husband, Daniel Kaber, was accepted at noon today.

The accused woman succeeded in her efforts to keep the jury free from women, for five men will decide her fate.

"Mrs. Kaber, her brain diseased, weak and helpless, was the victim of her mother's machinations, 'the defence will claim, it was learned today.

"Paretic brain" will be the unusual defence put forth to save the alleged "stone woman."

Between the death chair and the alternative of spending the rest of her life in a hospital for the insane, she prefers the former.

"I will take a chance with death," she is said to have informed her attorneys in labouring a move contemplated by them to have her declared insane.

Alienists will testify that she is suffering from a form of paresis, which renders her irresponsible at times.

This brain disease, it will be claimed, is a result of the acts of Kaber, the murdered man.

Baring her soul and her sordid life on the witness stand the accused woman will claim that in mortal terror of her life she sought fortune tellers to use their "psychic powers" and "black magic" not to kill Kaber, but to cure him of his "bad habits."

As soon as the jury is impanelled it will be taken to the "murder mansion" to review the room where Kaber was slain by the stiletto of Victoria Pisolli, a hired assassin. The scene of the tragedy is a beautiful house with classic white columns, situated in Lakewood, a suburb of Cleveland. If the accused woman is freed, she will inherit it.

One of the tentative jurors in the Kaber case was ordered from the box this morning after it was learned he had served two terms in the penitentiary. Judge Dernon requested the man's name be withheld because he had served in the World War and made a commendable record.

ILL-FATED RACER FORETOLD DEATH

Joseph Thomas, No. 22 Fulton street, Hyde Park, professional automobile racer, who was killed when the car he was driving on the track at the Fair Grounds No. 1 Adams, plunged through a fence, had a premonition of death, according to his fellow racers.

Shortly before starting the fatal race, he told his friends that he was going to win the race or go through the fence.

Two minutes before the start he posed for a picture for the American. He said at the time, in speaking to the photographer; "Make it good, because if I go through the fence, you won't see it." Within five minutes he was dead.

SALUTE GREETS PAGEANT GUESTS

A salute of seventeen guns greeted Major-General Clarence R. Edwards and Governor Cox when they entered the bowl at Harvard Stadium that they as guests of honor at the final presentation of the annual pageant there. More than 5,000 spectators were present.

Prior to the pageant Governor Cox and Colonel James F. Howell, commander of the harbor defences, were guests at a reception given by Major Albert F. Walker, aide to the Governor, at his home No. 374 Pleasant street.

A testimonial of their appreciation of his work in their behalf was presented to Colonel Howell by citizens of Winthrop.

SWAMP CANOE IN FALL FROM TREE

A canoe with two young women was swamped in Flax Pond, Lynn, when a bough of a tree on which several young boys had perched to watch the water sports, snapped, hurling two of them onto the frail craft.

One of the girls swam ashore.

The other was pinned under the broken limb and would have drowned but for the prompt action of two of the boys, Edgar Southwick.

MOTHER MADE ILL BY BOY'S ABSENCE

The continued absence from home of Joseph Di Nubile, seventeen years old, of Granville avenue, Medford, who has been missing since March, has caused his mother to become ill through grief. Joseph, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Di Nubile, was in his second year in high school when he disappeared.

Gabriel Noradoungian, at the Copley-Plaza banquet, making his appeal for an Armenian mandatory, and other figures at the affair, as Harmony saw them.

Armenia wants to be mandatory of some small European power financially backed by the United States.

Gabriel Noradoungian, special envoy from the Armenian delegation in Paris, thus outlined the needs of his people in addressing a Copley-Plaza gathering brought together by the Armenian National Union.

Noradoungian is the most prominent of all Armenian nationalists.

It is the man who induced his countrymen to break away from the Young Turks when Envor Bey took sides with the Germans.

Arshak Safrastian, general secretary of the Armenian national delegation, was also guest of honor at the Copley-Plaza meeting.

Miss Alice Stone Blackwell, noted suffragist and life-long friend of the Armenians, was toastmaster. Corporation Counsel Hill represented the city, Lieutenant-Governor Fuller represented the State. Other speakers included Augustus P. Loring and Dr. Brewer Eddy.

Garabed H. Papazian was interpreter for Noradoungian. Spoke alternately in Armenian and French. Most of the other speakers used English. Mr. Hill spoke both in English and French.

MILLION FRANCS IN RED CROSS MOTOR FRAUD

Steel Needed to House War Refugees Brazenly Sold to Profiteers

New York, July 6.—How millions of francs worth of Red Cross equipment was stolen, stolen or borrowed, is revealed in today's New York American. This equipment included automobiles, typewriters, cameras, steel and lumber.

Specific instances, taken from copies of Red cross reports hitherto suppressed by that organization, show:

1—One million francs worth of motorcycles, bicycles, touring cars and trucks were sold by the alleged bogus major acting as field agent for the Red Cross in Italy in April, 1919.

2—Thousands of tons of steel framework, badly needed for shelter for refugees in 1919, were sold to brokers by the Red Cross. Thousands of feet of lumber were stored in remote places and forgotten and then discovered by investigators.

3—Hundreds of new typewriters were taken from Paris Red Cross headquarters. Some were found to have been sold and others were "borrowed" but never returned.

4—At least 100 expensive cameras were "borrowed" by Red Cross workers and never turned back in 1918 and 1919. No receipts were required from borrowers.

According to a confession made by an interpreter to the Paris police in July, 1919, he had aided a major in disposing of Red Cross vehicles. This major, whose name never had been entered on the official Red Cross personnel list, but who was permitted to act as field agent in Italy for two months, sold touring cars, motorcycles, trucks and bicycles to individuals.

When the Bureau of Salvage in Paris learned of these sales, an investigation was begun. It was discovered that the field agent's name did not appear on the personnel list. The alleged bogus major was said to have fled to the United States when an order was sent to Italy to check further sales. At that time only eight large cantinas remained in the Red Cross garages in Italy.

RECEIVED 1,000,000 FRANCS.

The interpreter swore that the major had received a million francs for the sales and never turned in the money to the Red Cross. He added he had been paid 1,000 francs for two weeks' work as interpreter for the major. He declared he knew the transactions involving the vehicles were unallowable. The Red Cross, as was its custom, dropped the investigation.

The American has documentary evidence showing where hundreds of new typewriters were removed from the Red Cross headquarters in Paris. To enumerate each case would require columns of space.

One instance indicates how a man who is a Red Cross worker identification card and then used the card to obtain typewriters. He would represent that he was a field man and wanted to borrow typewriters. The Red Cross system was so lax that any worker could borrow a typewriter, being asked to give no receipt. The man in question was arrested by the Provost Marshal at Brussels when taking a boat for Dover, and later confessed. He was not prosecuted by the Red Cross, but was held by the army officials as a deserter.

BIG LOSS IN CAMERAS.

Cameras suffered a fate similar to that of Red Cross typewriters. Only in remote cases where a worker desired to keep a camera was he denied. Few of such "borrowed" cameras were returned to Red Cross headquarters in Paris. Following is one of the reports to the aide to the Commissioner for France, Major Paul E. Smith:

"None of the first cases this department handled was that of trying to recover cameras loaned to various Red Cross personnel and never turned back, and for which, according to the information furnished by Red Cross that the bureau of photography, William T. McCulley, no receipts were taken—merely a note which was later carded, as to who received the machine.

"Among these were twenty outstanding cases, some of them given to people who returned to the States with the cameras). A list of the people who still had the cameras was given to Major Fred P. Smith with the understanding that he would take the matter up with the Red Cross at Washington."

TRAFFIC IN STEEL.

A sworn-to copy of a telegram from James Stuart Burns, Paris broker, refers to confirmation of purchase of the framework. It is addressed to the Red Cross, May 21, 1919, as follows:

"We beg to confirm our purchase from you today of all the steel at your St. Ouier warehouse at the price of fifty-five francs the hundred kilos."

Another sworn-to telegram, purported to have been sent on June 20, 1919, and signed "Roberts," was addressed to Major Francis Boyer, assistant in Bureau of Salvage, as follows:

"Am shipping goods and selling barracks and junk. NOTHING HAS BEEN GIVEN AWAY."

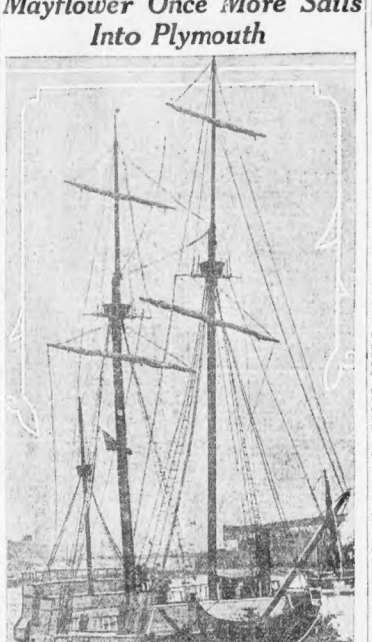
Meanwhile refugees had little or no material available for building dwellings for themselves, thousands of them sleeping in the streets. Cement and other building materials were disposed of in like manner.

PROVIDENCE CANOE VICTIMS IDENTIFIED

Providence, July 6—Isadore Bass, sixteen years old, of No. 259 North Main street, and David Cohen, eighteen, of No. 236 North Main street, were the two canoeists swept to their death over the dam Sunday.

Discovery of cards in a coat found in the river below Hunt's Mills led to the solution of the mystery of the young men's identity. Persons in the vicinity of the falls reported to the police having seen the canoe in which the two men were boating plunge over the falls.

Mayflower Once More Sails Into Plymouth



Schooner Fannie F. Hall made over to represent the Pilgrims' original vessel as she was being towed into Plymouth Harbor.

Plymouth, July 6—The good ship Mayflower entered Plymouth harbor again today.

After 300 years the square-rigged, high-pooped little craft with the tall spars and the stoved-up bowsprit "came back."

Sure-enough Indians (of the Passamaquoddy tribe in Maine) stood silently on the beach and watched her come.

Their tepees covered the shore. Their dress was that of 300 years ago.

But, alas, the Mayflower did not enter under her own sail. A squatty little tug from Boston chug-chugged bravely in advance, and reminded the "white brothers" present that it was not the real thing, and that the landing of the real Pilgrims was a long time ago.

The "Mayflower" was the made-over coasting schooner Fannie F. Hall, provided with false-work to represent the original craft. The illusion was perfect. She was towed from South Boston, where she was made ready for her part in the all-Summer Pilgrim tercentenary celebration.

J. W. Campbell, veteran shipwright of East Boston, "made over" the Fannie Hall. After the celebration she will go back into coastwise service. The mock "Mayflower" is a perfect copy of the original as to size.

Which caused even the inarticulate Indians on the beach to wonder how the ancestors of all the alleged Mayflower Descendants ever got on her without sinking.

'FIRE QUEEN' IS SOUGHT IN NEWTON

Author of Mysterious Blazes Thought to Be Brookline Pyromaniac

Has the "Fire Queen" of Brookline shifted the scene of her incendiarism to Newton?

Is the "Fire Queen" of Brookline really a big strong man, who has used the feminine title merely to throw the police off his track?

These are two questions the police and fire department authorities of Newton are asking today, following the discovery of two incendiary fires and the narrow escape of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Peakes, No. 75 Park avenue, from being the victims of a third.

The work of the pyromaniac who started the blazes at No. 306 Franklin street, Newton, owned by H. H. Mason and M. A. Lawton, and at No. 29 Kenilworth street, owned by Robert T. Wolfe of Centre street, Jamaica Plain, so closely resembles that of Brookline's celebrated incendiary, William T. McCulley, no relation, Chief Takhamerely a word which was later carded, as to who received the machine.

Among these were twenty outstanding cases, some of them given to people who returned to the States with the cameras). A list of the people who still had the cameras was given to Major Fred P. Smith with the understanding that he would take the matter up with the Red Cross at Washington."

Boston Business Men Strong For Gingham Office Girl, Score Jazz Type

By HAZEL CANNING

How does he like 'em, the "boss," of course?

Does he prefer the girl in his office tailor-made or fluffy-ruffled.

For some time now the moralists have moralized, anent the coy touches to the dress of the Summer business girl; also "agin" those coy touches.

The inquiry has lately been pushed to earth, right into the den of the man most concerned, when the inquiry was taken to the "boss" himself.

Does the "boss" like lacy ruffles, short skirts, crepe de chine fol de rols, necks open and unconcealing, lingerie all too evident and above board—does or does he not, in Boston?

Answer—In Boston he does not. Witness the concerted opinion, fervently expressed, of two gentlemen who employ many young business women. They are A. B. Richardson, of the Penn. Mutual Insurance Company, and C. N. Ladd, head of the Personnel Department of the John Hancock Insurance Company.

"Give me the tailor-made girl, for the business office, in Winter and in Summer, as well," said Manager Richardson.

"The tailor-made girl is always neat; she's not flashy; she's not all on the surface; she displays, for business, a trim suit, a skirt decently long, crimped of linen, and crispest of efficiency. She's the girl for my office, in Winter or in Summer. And, what's more, she can dress like this, and be cool as well. And not rumpled all up, at the end of the day."

"I can't come out strong enough for the gingham girl in Summer," declared Mr. Ladd explained. "Gingham's so transparent; it's cool again; it can be washed and it can be made in a formal style for office wear. The one piece, formally made gingham dress, in Summer, and the two-piece woolen tailored suit in Winter are most fitting for the business girl."

6,448,366 FARMERS TILL SOIL OF U. S.

Washington, July 6—There were 6,448,366 farmers in the United States in 1920, according to census figures made public tonight. Of this number, 5,498,359 were white, 926,257 were negroes, 16,213 Indians, 6,859 Japanese and 638 Chinese. White farmers thus represented 85.3 per cent of the total, which is practically the same ratio that obtained in 1910. During the ten years the number of white farmers increased 1.1 per cent., and the colored increased 3.2 per cent.

MORSS CHOSEN PRESIDENT OF CHAMBER

Head of Simplex Wire & Cable Company Elected by Boston Commerce Body

The long-delayed election of a president of the Boston Chamber of Commerce for the current year occurred today when the directors met and chose Everett Morss for the position.

Mr. Morss was traveling in Europe when the annual election of directors took place early in May and the election was postponed from time to time until it was certain that Morss would accept.

Everett Morss is president of the Simplex Wire and Cable Company, chairman of the executive committee of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and has been prominent in the educational, industrial and social life of the community for many years.

During the war he was chairman of the War Priorities Committee and of the brass and copper tube section of the War Industries Board at Washington.

Henry J. Dennison was chosen first vice-president and Robert G. Dodge second vice-president. James A. Ribben was again chosen executive secretary of the Chamber.

NORTON ARREST STARTLES BOSTON

Broker Denies He Is Guilty of Anything But "Technical Law Violation"

Boston society was surprised today by the announcement of the arrest in New York of Eliot Norton, son of Professor Charles Eliot Norton of Harvard, and member of a distinguished family, on a charge of illegal sale of stock in the Standard Film Industries Corporation.

Norton is one of four prominent men under indictment in Manhattan. He denies he is guilty of anything more than a technical violation of the law.

He was arrested in his office at No. 5 Hector street, New York. Today he said: "This is an old case, thoroughly threshed out three years ago. It is a purely technical violation of the law.

We filed articles of incorporation in Virginia calling for an issue of 200 shares of $5 each as required by the Virginia law. When we got ready to issue other stock the war was on and I neglected to file a statement that we intended to issue additional stock."

DREXEL ALSO INDICTED.

The other men indicted with Mr. Norton are Anthony J. Drexel, a member of the famous Philadelphia family of that name, whose wife was Miss Marjorie Gould; Louis B. Jennings, president of the American Film Laboratories, Inc., and Harry Brodsky, New York politician and Wall street operator.

According to Edward Swann, New York district attorney, who is handling the case personally, more than $350,000 worth of the stock was issued and sold, although less than $200,000 was paid into the treasury of the company, as a result of the huge commissions paid the agents.

Scores of poor immigrants are alleged to have invested their savings in the company.

TOBACCO KING QUIT.

Angier B. Duke, of the American Tobacco Company and George A. Hurty, banker, are named as directors of the corporation in a prospectus issued by the concern. Both Duke and Hurty, however, withdrew before the corporation became active.

The incorporators of the concern are given as Jenning, Norton and Alexander H. Jackson.

FIRE DAMAGES $20,000 LOSS IN WEBSTER FIRE

Webster, July 6—The fire marshal and police are today investigating the mysterious fire which destroyed the home of Street Commissioner Herman Covey, burning five automobiles and doing damage estimated at $20,000. The garage is located in a thickly settled part of the town, for which fact alone the blaze is regarded as diabolical. Wafil Papiawski of No. 2 Maple court, that town, was the first to report at the Memorial Deaconess Hospital that he will be able to leave in a day or two.

TWO ARE FACING FORGERY CHARGES

Worcester, July 6—Charged with forgery on five counts Rodolph Lind, son of Holden and Albert Garabedian of Worcester are held in bonds of $1,000 each in Superior Court. They were arrested in the Merchants' National Bank after an unsuccessful attempt to cash a bogus check.

LACK OF MONEY DROVE GIRL TO SUICIDE

Dorothy Stewart Believed to Have Ended Life Because of Financial Straits

A rapidly dwindling bank account and despondency caused by family troubles are believed by the police to have been the chief causes for the suicide of pretty Dorothy E. Stewart, twenty-one years old, who was found dead with a bullet in her right temple in a room at the Hotel Plaza.

From information secured by the police the petite stenographer is believed to have shared in the ups and downs of life during the past two years.

It is stated by people who knew her that she said she was married before the war. She is said to have told friends that her husband went into the service and later said that he was doing nothing for her.

Miss Stewart was at one time in the care of a Mrs. Blake, connected with the Boston Society for the Care of Girls, and it was this organization that sponsored her when she applied for a room at the Y. W. C. A.

Records of the Somerville police show that Dorothy Stewart was arrested on the night of May 23 on a charge of being present where gambling implements were seized.

She paid a fine of $5 at that time but seemed to be more interested in the disposal of a 22-calibre revolver which the police found in a drawer during the raid at a Liberty road home in Somerville.

Miss Stewart came to police headquarters twice after her trial and asked for the gun but Captain Kendall declined to turn it over to her.

She told the police at that time, they claim, that if she did not get that one she would buy another.

When Dorothy reached her majority she received $1,000 from her father's insurance, and her first act was to invest in a new fur coat.

She placed the remainder, amounting to over $900, in the bank, but this rapidly dwindled until recently there was a balance of only twenty-six cents.

PASTOR CALLS HUB TOO INTELLECTUAL

"Boston is too intellectual. There is too much speculation about the Second Coming," declared Dr. N. H. Harriman of New York in his Bible talks in Tremont Temple.

Dr. Harriman says that when Christ will come again to earth He will not come to Boston, but to the Mount Harriman here. He will speak this month on Tuesday and Friday afternoons.

BOSTON SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

By BETTY ALDEN

The Hub social set was well represented at the rustic Independence Day parade held at Lenox, in the Berkshires, for Mrs. Nelson J. Peabody of this city acted as marshal for the procession. I hear that the "marshaless," who rode a chestnut charger, made quite a striking figure garbed in the costume of an Indian chief's mate, with feathers and glittering beads a-plenty. A float designed by Miss Mabel Choate, who stayed for a few days at the Chilton Club last week, entitled "Agriculture," won second prize in the parade at Stockbridge.

On Saturday of this week Mrs. Nicholson Le Moyne of No. 51 Massachusetts avenue will leave for her Summer home, "The Manor House," Isle aux Grues, Quebec. During this week Mrs. Le Moyne is at the North Shore, where she is dividing her time visiting her two daughters, Mrs. Strafford Wentworth at her Manchester home and Mrs. Thomas Stevens, Jr., at Beverly. Last year Mrs. Le Moyne took a trip around the world.

I note that quite a large number of prominent Boston families are due to arrive this week at Dark Harbor, Me., including the Dudley R. Hoxies, the Henry Hoxies, the Richard D. Searses, Dr. and Mrs. Frederick C. LEE ELECTED HEAD OF DYER COMPANY

J. W. Lee, Jr., formerly vice-president of the George L. Dyer Company, advertising agents, has been elected president to succeed George L. Dyer, deceased. Mr. Lee has been connected with the Dyer Company since January 1. Prior to that time, he was associated with his brother, Ivy L. Lee, as counsellors and advisers in advertising and publicity to various large interests. With the exception of Mr. Lee, the entire management of the George L. Dyer Company remains the same as it was before Mr. Dyer's death.

VANZETTI SAYS SACCO FLED TO MEXICO, TOO

Defendant, Cross - Examined, Admits He Lied on Witness Stand Yesterday

"If my head is involved here, that is why I remember what happened on April 15, 1920," cried Bartolomeo Vanzetti of Plymouth in the Dedham Superior Court today during his cross-examination by District Attorney Frederick Katzmann. Vanzetti and Nicola Sacco are charged with first degree murder as the outgrowth of the payroll murders at South Braintree on the date mentioned.

Vanzetti was being pressed hard by Katzmann, who thundered question after question at him. Vanzetti lost the calm which characterized his direct examination. He shook his finger at the district attorney as he answered.

Just before this episode the district attorney told Vanzetti to keep up his voice so that Sacco could hear his answers. Vanzetti said his voice was not strong.

POINTED TO NECK.

Q—Was your voice weak when you talked with Policeman Michael J. Connolly of Brockton a liar when he testified that you reached for a gun in your hip pocket at the time of arrest? A—I didn't speak any louder then than I am now.

Q—On what date was it that you called Connolly a liar? A—I don't know.

Q—Was it within the last twenty days? A—Yes.

Q—Did you make any note of April 15, 1920? The defendant then excitedly replied that he did make a note of that date because his head was involved. He pointed to the side of his neck as he gave answer. Judge Thayer repeatedly advised Vanzetti to confine his answers to the questions asked.

Another highly dramatic moment came when Vanzetti admitted lying to the district attorney on the day after his arrest as to the length of time he had known Sacco.

"I lied to you," said Vanzetti, "because I did not want you to know that you and Sacco went to Mexico to evade the draft." This was the first time it had appeared that not only had Vanzetti fled to Mexico in 1917 to avoid conscription, but that his co-defendant fled with him for the same purpose.

WAS TO ADDRESS SOLDIERS.

Q—Oh, so Sacco went to Mexico with you? A—Yes.

Q—And for the same purpose that you went? A—Yes.

Q—And are you the man who on the ninth of May, 1920, was to address the returned soldiers in Brockton? A—Yes.

Q—Are you the man that was to advise the men who had gone to war and fought for this country? The District Attorney's voice was vibrant with emotion. It thrilled the spectators. A—I am! and that man, replied Vanzetti, drawing himself to full height, as he hurled back the answer to the prosecutor.

Q—When did you first meet Mike Boda? A—I don't know.

Q—Did you ever know where Boda lived? A—No.

Q—If you didn't know where Boda lived on May 6 how did it aid you in the process of deception by saying you didn't know Boda? A—I didn't know where Boda lived. I denied I knew him.

Q—Can you name a single individual from whom you were going to collect books in Bridgewater the night of arrest? A—No.

Q—Did you make any effort to hide or secrete any books or literature in Sacco's house before you left May 5? A—No sir.

Q—Did Sacco? A—No sir.

QUESTIONED ABOUT GUN.

The automobile left in Johnson's garage, West Bridgewater, by Mike Boda, whom he disappeared, was brought to Dedham Court House today on a truck for later use as an exhibit by the State.

Picking up Vahsetti's revolver and pressing near the witness, Katzmann asked him about it.

Q—Where did you get the bullets that were in it? A—They were in it when I bought it.

He could not recall whether he said to the district attorney after his arrest that he bought a box of cartridges in Hanover street, Boston, four years previously at the time he bought the revolver.

The district attorney read from typewritten pages.

Q—Will you say you didn't say that to me? A—No.

Q—If you made the statement was it false? A—Faises.

FORGOT DATE.

Q—On May 6, 1920, when I talked with you at Brockton didn't I ask you where you were on April 15, the Thursda before Patriots Day? A—Yes.

Q—And did ou say you didn't know where ou were on April 15? A—Yes.

Q—And after months and months you were able to remember where you were on that date! A—Not months, but three or four weeks after. I had to remember well in order to save my life. I understood I would have to be very careful. When you asked me on May 6 where I was on April 15, I did not dare to say to be charged with killing a man.

Attorney J. J. McAnarney again questioned Vanzetti when Katzmann had finished.

Q—Did Chief Stewart or Mr. Katzmann tell you at Brockton that you were suspected of murder and robbery? A—o.

Q—Did they tell you you were arrested for murder at South Braintree? A—No.

SUSPECTED "RED" DRIVE.

Q—What did you thiunk you were arrested for? A—I thought I was arrested for being a "Red."

Q—Why did you think so. A—Because I was asked if I was a Socialist, an Anarchist, a Communist, an I. W. W., or a blackhand.

Vanzetti left the stand after occupying it for eight hours and twenty minutes.

Sacco talked earnestly with him when he resumed his seat in the steel cage.

WED WAR ORPHAN WHO SAVED HIS LIFE AT YPRES

John Shanley, Deaf Veteran, and 15-Year-Old Belgian Girl Visit Boston

One of the war's most gripping romances was revealed to Bostonians today by the visit to the Hub of John Shanley, a deaf Canadian veteran, and his wife, a fifteen-year-old Belgian girl, who saved his life at the second battle of Ypres, and their baby.

In the bloody Ypres engagement Shanley was severely wounded and fell into a deep shell hole. For thirty-one hours he lay, a bullet in his right leg and a shrapnel wound in his left leg.

Poisonous gases blanketed the earth and the veteran had about abandoned hope, when Honora Fountaine, a war orphan, then ten years old, carrying a neck yoke, with a bucket at either end, beheld the wounded soldier in the crater.

With the assistance of a girl chum she dragged him to safety.

COMPOSER

Hugo Riesenfeld, whose new work, "Little Italy," was played for the first time in Boston at the Pops last night.

The program at the Pops last night included the playing, for the first time in Boston, of a new composition by Hugo Riesenfeld, the celebrated motion picture musician, who composes scores for most of the big feature films, including the "Four Horsemen," now playing in Boston.

It is called "Little Italy," and is a humorous, descriptive bit describing characters and themes in the New York Italian quarter.

The piece is taken from a suite by Riesenfeld called, "Themes in New York," and the entire suite will be played at the Pops during the Fall season.

The composition was well applauded.

old, was seized as he and Mrs. Loretta Lavendar stepped from an automobile, late at night. He was dragged over rocks and meadowland to Meredith's pasture.

Mrs. Lavendar made an outcry. One of the men fired a bullet into the ground "to frighten her." She lighted a lantern and pulled the mask from the face of one of the tar-and-feather party.

England declares that he was brutally kicked on the way to the pasture. Arrived there, he was stripped to the waist and whipped with ropes. Fifty blood-red welts on his upper body attested to the truth of his story.

Then the tar was applied, and later the feathers. It was done in an amateurish way. As a result, half the hair on his head was burned off.

GUN SHUTTERS BALK; UTAH PUTS BACK

U. S. Battleship Which Sailed for Europe With Rifle Team Found Defective

The battleship Utah, bound for Europe on a two-year cruise, was forced to put back to the Charlestown Navy Yard today for repairs to her gun shutters, which refused to close when she started out to sea yesterday afternoon.

The big fighting ship has been undergoing repairs at the yard for several weeks preparatory for her cruise in European waters. After leaving there yesterday she hung in the offing swinging ship for compass adjustments.

As night drew near, orders were issued to close the gun shutters. Not until then was it learned that this could not be done, and rather than risk going to sea with them open the commanding officer anchored in the lower bay over night.

In coming up the harbor early today at 8th tide the ship touched on Bird Flats, between Governor's Island and East Boston, but sustained no damage.

On board the Utah is a crack rifle team on its way to compete in the international rifle match at Lyons, France, next month. The marksmen probably will remain aboard the ship until repairs are completed, which may take a week or ten days.

NEW CHANCE TO ENTER SONG TITLE TEST

Printing of Back Pictures Will Be Made Wednesday and Thursday, Next Week

All the Back Pictures in the Boston American's $6,000 Songs of the World Title Test will be printed in this newspaper on Wednesday and Thursday of next week.

With the help of these Back Pictures any reader may step into this unique test on equal terms with those who have been in from the beginning.

Today is the twenty-fourth day of the Test, which consists of 69 Test Pictures and accompanying Lists of Titles.

Readers are invited to write a title for each of the sixty pictures. These titles already have been selected. They will be printed in the Lists of Titles which appear with the pictures.

For example, the Correct Title of today's picture, No. 24, is in the List of Titles appearing below it. See if you can find it. When you are satisfied that you have done so, write (or paste) the title on the "title" line under the picture.

Test pictures and titles are not to be sent in before the end of the Test. Then, when all have been compared with the Official List of Titles, the Boston American will pay $20 awards, IN CASH, to those who have sent in the largest number of Correct Titles. The awards:

ONE FIRST AWARD	$1,000
ONE SECOND AWARD	1,000
ONE THIRD AWARD	750
ONE FOURTH AWARD	500
ONE FIFTH AWARD	400
ONE SIXTH AWARD	300
ONE SEVENTH AWARD	200
ONE EIGHTH AWARD	150
ONE NINTH AWARD	100
ONE TENTH AWARD	50
100 AWARDS OF $10 EACH	1,000
110 AWARDS OF $5 EACH	550
Totals	$6,000

Every title used in the Songs of the World Title Test is the title of a song. The 69 Test Pictures illustrate song-titles. They may have no other "musical" connection. The artist, that is to say, had the song-title before him for purposes of illustration, but his picture—while aptly illustrating the title—may in no way suggest the song itself. It may—or it may not. The pictures were drawn for "test" purposes. The test is a test of your skill and ingenuity.

Test Picture No. 25 will be printed tomorrow. Then, one picture every week day until the Test is ended.

Except on Wednesday and Thursday of next week, when, as stated above, the Boston American will reprint all the Pictures from No. 1 to No. 29, inclusive.

You may have "missed," lost or mislaid one or more Test Pictures. Next Wednesday's and Thursday's reprints will provide a certain method of securing these numbers. We do not sell, and cannot supply, back numbers of the paper. Following this ONE printing of Back Pictures it will be well. If you have not done so already, to notify the newsdealer that you will want your paper regularly for at least the period of the Test.

The Boston American Songs of the World Title Test is a test of skill and interest open to all readers of the Boston American, irrespective of age, title is any city or town in New England or Canada.

Two hundred and twenty cash awards will be given by this newspaper to its readers who submit the largest percentages of correct titles to the sixty pictures to be published one each day consecutively (Sundays excepted) in the Boston American.

All employes of the Boston American and their families are absolutely barred from competing in this grand contest.

Each list of titles of 60 pictures, each representing the title of a well-known song to be printed one each day in the Boston American, the first picture on Wednesday, June 8, 1921.

Participation in any other contest which may be conducted by the Boston American or any one run by the Boston American will not debar anyone from entering this test.

Every participant, or any or all members of a family will be allowed to submit one set of pictures, but each set must contain only ONE TITLE to each picture, and only one list of titles. Only one prize or one award will be given to any one family.

Every song title must be neatly written or printed on the coupon furnished by the Boston American, or on a facsimile of this form. Only one title to a picture will be considered. Titles appearing in any form other than those furnished by the Boston American, or a neat or small copy thereof, and must bear the name, residence, etc., of the participant on each title blank.

Do not send your titles in "list" form. I. e., do not write the titles under one another on a piece of paper.

In case there are not complete sets of correct titles, awards will be given to the person submitting the nearest correct solutions, giving weight to skill and judgment.

In case of ties in the awards, duplicate awards will be given, each in the full amount, but if the tie cannot be decided in that way the tied participants will receive similar awards.

Under no circumstances should participants send in their lists of titles before the first Test, as any such lists before the last picture is printed will not be considered. KEEP your titles from day to day at the end of the Test arrange them in numerical order and then send them in all together in one letter. This will not be a factor in making the awards, but will be helpful to the judges in their work. Do not send the lists in separately.

All titles must be delivered to the Boston American title headquarters, at No. 80 Summer street, Boston, Mass., on or before the 29th day, unless the specified time limit which will be announced later.

All envelopes or wrappers containing titles must be legibly addressed as follows: "Song Title Editor, No. 80 Summer street, Boston, Mass." In the upper left-hand corner of the envelope bearing written or stamped on it, upper left-hand corner.

As all pictures in the Test will contain written or printed matter, if mailed, it is absolutely necessary that the proper postage for printed matter and letter rate on any part thereof be affixed, else the packages will not be forwarded by the postoffice as miscellaneous matter. The Boston American reserves the right to refuse to consider any sets of titles on which charges for postal delivery are not fully prepaid.

There will be no title or answer book to buy. Lists of song Titles will be printed in the Boston American. The list appearing will contain among others the correct titles.

Participants who desire further information should call at the headquarters in the Song Title Editor, No. 80 Summer street, Boston, Mass. Questions will be answered as far as possible through the columns of the Boston American. If participants desire personal answers, they should enclose sufficient postage for such a reply, or they may phone Main 7000 and ask for Song Editor.

The Boston American reserves the right to make any change in, or additions to these conditions that it may deem necessary for fully and properly conducting the Test, and the decision of the Boston American Song Title Editor on any question which may arise will be final. By entering the Test each one will grant to a complete acceptance of all conditions and regulations now made or to be made.

"Poslam? Why, that's what healed MY skin"! That is what thousands and thousands would say if you asked them about that famous skin treatment.

It acts quickly and surely on eczema, rashes and such tormenting eruptions—stopping the itching and smarting from the first application, and rapidly restoring skin-health.

But effective as Poslam is, it is made of the gentlest, safest things—nothing in it that could irritate the tenderest or most inflamed skin, even of a tiny baby. Use everywhere. For sample, free, write to POSLAM, 245 W. 47th St., New York.

Poslam Soap, medicated with Poslam, does wonders for poor complexions.—Advertisement.

This Makes the Curl Stay in Your Hair

The slimeritic method is unusually popular just now, according to the druggists. This is largely due to the warm weather and because women are now spending so much of their time out of doors. This simple method not only produces the loveliest, most looking curls and waves, but it keeps the air in curl no matter how hot or how moist the day, nor how hard the wind blows.

All one need do is to wet a clean tooth brush with liquid slimerine, draw this through the hair before doing it up, and the hair will dry in just the sweetest waves and crinkles. This will also keep the hair beautifully soft, silky and lustrous. A few ounces of liquid slimerine will last for months.—Advertisement.

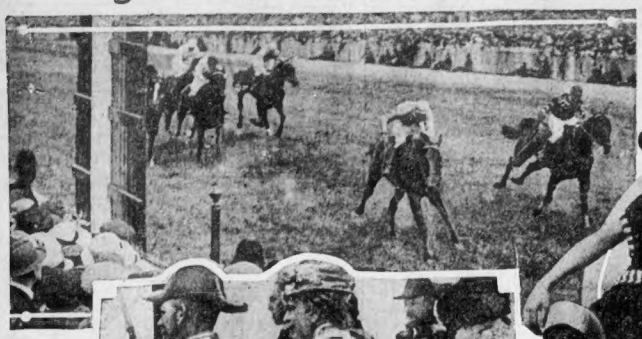
Cooling Breezes and Crashing Waves Beckon Boston's Comeliest to Nantasket

Nantasket



THRILLING! Above is shown the heart-breaking finish of gold cup race at Ascot, England, when Periosteum (nearest the rail) led the field. (U. & U.)

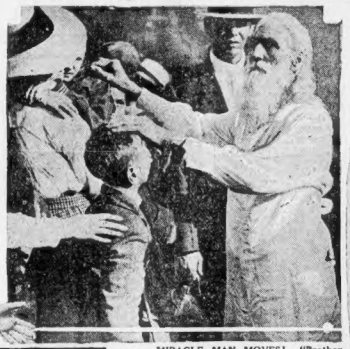
A JOLLY GOOD FELLOW! that's what Ambassador Harvey says of King George (at left). But then Harvey may be spoofing, who knows? Anyway, here's their majesties taking a last look at Belfast (U. & U.)

WHY THE WAVES ARE WILD! Each passing day sees a larger and happier crowd at Nantasket, and these joyous young ladies are but a small part of the army of fair bathers at this resort. Figuratively speaking, these girls are dears. Left to right, Eleanor Fitzgerald, Florence Tesson and Grace Tiernan.

BIT O' SCOTCH! Grace MacDonald, who won the Walter Scott medal for piping at the Caledonia Grove picnic. During the contest she played all old Scotch airs with native color and charm. Quite charming herself.

BARES HORROR! Elizabeth Hardman of Georgia, who saw the victims of Chinese famine.

SPEECHLESS! Forrest F. Dryden, head of Prudential Insurance Co., held in contempt of court when he refused to answer questions at Lockwood probe. (Key.)



MIRACLE MAN MOVES! "Brother Isaiah," he of the immaculate whiskers, who suddenly left Los Angeles when his healing "ability" was questioned. Shown with young "patient." (Int.)

AT THE TEE. Senator Ashhurst of Arizona likes a smart little game of golf. (W. W.)

Baroness Oriova, who escaped from Siberia, going into movies in U. S. (W. W.)

TWINKLE TOES! Little Agatha Heff, who danced for the crippled children of a Brooklyn hospital. (Int.)

BY THE SEA! Mrs. Oliver Perrin and James W. Gerard, former U. S. Ambassador to Germany, enjoying the sands of Southampton, L. I. (Int.)

SUCCESS! Lady Diana Manner's first moving picture is declared to be a splendid success. It is finished in colors. Most beautiful peeress in England.

OPTICAL FINGER TIPS! Another great handicap for the blind is rapidly being overcome by the creation of a new system for taking pictures that may be "seen" by the blind. It consists simply of making perforations and especial characters on a piece of metal. These can be felt and distinguished by the hand very easily. The diagram shows how the perforations, which appear like dots, look to the normal eye. It is a "blind picture" of Westminster Abbey. (U. & U.)

STAR MERMAID! During the exciting swimming match between the chorus girls from two Broadway shows, Miss Gertrude McDonald showed that she wasn't a poor fish. She was one of the largest point winners for her side. Match was held in Madison Square Garden. Needless to say, it attracted wide attention. Many smart sea suits were on display. (Int.)

WOULD YOU BELIEVE that these two photographs are of the same girl? Both are of Miss Jane Tallent, who, to use a silly pun, displays considerable talent in the Jekyll-Hyde direction. Her philosophy of life is that pessimism destroys the face and youth, and that optimism preserves all this world while.

MOSQUITOES DELIGHT! That's rather a crude but frank name for this new Chicago fad—stockingless knees. Paris rolls 'em—Chi shakes 'em. Boston,—why my dear we're perfect ladies here. (U. & ...

QUINCY MAN IS CHARGED WITH POLYGAMY

Former Sea Captain Denies He Was Married to Complainant in Case

Charged with polygamy by a woman who claims to be his first wife, Stanley Morin, a former sea captain, and now proprietor of a notions store, was held in $1,000 bail in the District Court today for trial July 20.

Morin denies the statements made by the complainant and pleaded not guilty when arraigned.

According to the woman's complaint, Morin married Miss Jenny Shields in St. Cecelia's Church, New York City, four years ago, although he had not obtained a divorce from her.

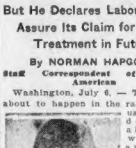
The couple moved to Quincy about a month ago and bought a house on Avalon street.

RAILROAD STRIKE NOT EXPECTED BY HAPGOOD

But He Declares Labor Should Assure Its Claim for Right Treatment in Future

By NORMAN HAPGOOD,
Staff Correspondent of Boston American

Washington, July 6. — Things are about to happen in the railroad situation. The decision about the wage awards at Chicago will think be against a strike. To strike now against wage reduction would be the poorest strategy.



NORMAN HAPGOOD

The diplomatic procedure would be to protest against a policy of making labor pay for the stupidity of the railroads, but to express a generous willingness to save the public from the disasters of a strike at this critical moment.

There might well be a reservation about the future; an explicit pointing out that labor does not permanently give up its just claims, and means to return to them as soon as the emergency is past. With more statesmanlike leadership the opportunity could be used to lay down a constructive program.

TO PRESENT CASE.

At the Washington end things will also be lively, beginning next week. The railroad employes are to put in their case before the Cummins committee. The brotherhoods are expected to occupy about five days, and the shop crafts to follow them, probably the following week.

The promise of Senator Cummins to recall the railroad officials for cross-examination, if the promise is carried out, will furnish the most interesting feature of the hearings. It will show just how little the officials know about the actual costs in their business. It will show what a hopelessly meaningless system of accounting they carry on.

The highest claim being made by the railroads is something that seems to total about $1,700,000,000 for alleged inefficiency of labor during the period of government operation and the period of government guarantee. They are trying to interpret the word "cost," not in the simple sense of money paid out, but in the subtle and wholly guesswork sense of money paid out in relation to a dogmatic surmise about the quality of the work done.

FALSITY OF INTERPRETATION.

The falsity of this attempted interpretation of the contract with the government is shown by the fact of record that the roads, when Mr. McAdoo was director-general, tried to get such a provision put in the contract, and the government rejected it, on the simple ground that it was unworkable and would be the basis for wild and unsupported claims.

The railroad administration, which is the one department of the government that does not seem to be afraid of the propaganda carried on by the roads points out that when President Wilson's proclamation took over the roads he took 260,000 miles of main track, 2,500,000 freight cars, 60,000 locomotives, 55,000 passenger cars, and all kinds of complex equipment.

There were 138 separate large organizations and from six to eight hundred small organizations. No comprehensive or detailed survey of its condition was in existence. Some were in poor condition. Some were in very bad condition. Labor was of many different kinds in different parts of the country. In one place track labor would be native, in another negro, in another Mexican, Italian, Japanese.

A STRAIGHT MONEY TEST.

Therefore the government agreed with the railroads on a straight money test, closed to wild claims, and it is that test that the railroads are now trying to confuse, so as to rush in endless fake claims. They try, as the railroad administration shows, to submit claims "merely by offering figures which are themselves pure assertions as to the time required for certain selected operations at a particular shop of a single railroad at some time during the test period and at some time during Federal control."

The railroad attorneys, as the government says, do "not try to show even as to these figures by what method they were produced or how the comparison attempted is proposed to be justified."

It is considerable nerve. As the railroad administration says, the railroads have no records on which to base their guess. They gayly reduce the work done by the government by about 40 per cent. With equal gayety they trifle with the few real records there are.

For example, in one case an increase is shown of 124 per cent. They juggle the figures to try to show an increase of 142.3 per cent.

The rest of this tale of infinite nerve I shall tell tomorrow.

Fresh From Paris

PARIS, France.

IT is to Longchamps one must hasten if one would see a wide variety of the season's smartest frocks and tailleurs. In this one-piece white crepe de Chine frock, blonde lace, which assumes an important role in the midsummer costume, adapts itself gracefully to below the waistline at the back. In the front the lace is used as a ruche and extends in a lapel drapery down one side of the skirt, falling below the skirt edge. The black crepe tricorn has strands of uncurled ostrich at each side of the back.

THE open sleeves of the black Canton crepe gown at the right are modern interpretations of the old slashed sleeves, which, however, were less appealing, because they were always worn over long, tight inner sleeves. Lanvin and Rolande are among the couturiers who have shown interesting modern adaptations of the slashed sleeve. These owing lines are further carried out in the bloused bodice of this chemise frock and in the long, slim overskirt that falls in points at each side front. White cire ribbon, embroidered with black dots, is used here and there as a trimming. The dashing white cire hat has its brim slit and a white rose with silver tollage is inserted.

MUTINY ON U. S. STEAMSHIP COSTS LIFE

Captain of Pocahontas Reports Steward Killed Self in Excitement

Mutinous engine room employes are charged with causing the machinery trouble which crippled the American steamship Pocahontas off Nantucket a few weeks ago.

Captain Patterson has preferred charges of mutiny against members of the crew of the ship, which is now in Naples.

The American consul there is investigating, as among other charges, Patterson alleges the actions of certain of his subordinates drove a steward to suicide.

The Pocahontas is a United States Mail steamship.

On her way from New York to Boston the vessel's machinery became defective and 150 passengers had to be taken by special train to Newport.

Considerable excitement was occasioned here by the steamship's plight as several well known Bostonians were aboard.

At the time it was rumored disgruntled engine room hands might have damaged the machinery, but Captain Patterson's charges were a surprise, even to shipping men.

Caruso's Voice O. K. Says Specialist

New York, July 6.—"Unless something entirely new has developed within the past two weeks, the report that Caruso's voice will never be heard in all its former resonance and power cannot be true."

The foregoing statement was made by Dr. Antonio Stella, one of the tenor's physicians during his recent illness when his attention was called to the report that Caruso would never be able to repeat his triumphs. He added:

"There is no reason why he should not be able to appear on the operatic stage in letter voice than ever."

INDEPENDENT STEEL FIRM TO CUT PRICES

Slash in Wages and Rates Also Coming by Big Companies

By International News Service.

Pittsburgh, Pa., July 6.—The Republic Iron & Steel Company, one of the largest independent, today put in force a new price schedule that matches the reduction announced by the Bethlehem Steel Company.

It was unofficially reported in steel circles here today that the independents of Pittsburgh will make further price reductions in steel quotations and wages in a few days.

None of the steel makers would announce just what these reductions would be. It was generally accepted here that United States Steel would soon announce a cut in prices and wages to meet the competition of the big and little independents, but there was no official statement to obtained here.

BRITISH FLEET MOVES ON TURKS

English Troops Also Reported En Route to Constantinople

London, July 6.—The entire British Mediterranean fleet is moving towards Constantinople, said a News Agency dispatch from Malta this afternoon. It is rumored that British troops reinforcements are en route to Constantinople from England.

Advices from Constantinople on Tuesday said the Turkish Nationalists had occupied the whole of the Ismid Peninsula and were entering the neutral zone in the direction of Constantinople. It was reported then that Rumania might be called upon to send troops. The Greeks were reported retiring at some points.

GOLF STARS OPEN TOURNEY FOR STATE TITLE AT WORCESTER

PLAYERS GET EARLY START

Country Club Course in Best of Shape—Record Field of Starters

Ouimet Ties Record in Practice Round

Worcester, July 6.—Just to show he feels fit for the State Amateur Championship, Francis Ouimet went out and equalled the course record in a practice round. He did a 69, equaling the mark made by Willie Ogg, the club professional, and thereby setting a new record. His card:

Out. 4 4 4 3 5 3 4 2 4—33
In... 3 4 5 3 4 5 4 4 4—36—69

By Robert E. Harlow

Worcester Country Club, July 6.—Contestants in the State amateur golf championship today found the Country Club course in excellent condition. The first thing arrivals noticed when they turned the Deadman's Corner into the club property was that everything appeared green.

* * *

Four days of rain saved the course. Members say that it was upon the verge of ruin when it started to rain and that the abundance of water saved it and brought it back into shape for the championship.

* * *

Great interest is being manifested in the event. The field is the classiest to ever start for the state title. The first pair got away at 9 o'clock and the players were kept going until 12:25 o'clock, when the last pair got off for their first round.

* * *

It was estimated that the last pair would not complete the thirty-six holes of qualifying until after 4 o'clock tonight.

* * *

Worcester and Brae-Burn led with the largest number of starters, each club having nineteen entries. Because of this large entry list, and the number of strong players from each, these clubs were made favorites for the Windsler Shield, representative of the club championship.

* * *

This trophy is won by the club which turns in the lowest aggregate score for five players.

* * *

Scarboro, with nine starters, was considered to have a chance.

Tournament Notes

Worcester is backing Billy Whitcomb. He is a hot favorite with the local golfers and his speed around the Country Club course of late has warranted the faith in his game.

* * *

Many of the stars practised Tuesday. Fred J. Wright, Jr., present champion, was out and did a 75. Francis Ouimet went out late in a foursome with Jack Sullivan, Ray Gorton and Roger Hovey.

* * *

Members of the Country Club were out filling up holes in the fairways. They do not wish to have the players find their ball in unplayable lies.

* * *

It was estimated that scores of 172 or better would be good enough to make the match play division which starts tomorrow.

* * *

Skippy Malone, well-known Boston district caddy, who never misses an open event, is here and will carry for Freddy Wright.

* * *

Press arrangements are by far the best ever at a State championship. Four telegraph wires are looped into the clubhouse with three operators on the job. The club has provided a flock of new typewriters for the correspondents to grind out their copy on. It's great.

* * *

Billy Whitcomb did not play Tuesday. He was being handled as carefully as the boys who took part in the great mass at Jersey City, Saturday.

* * *

The greens were cut and rolled early today. They were greatly speeded up by the manacuring and required a delicate touch. They were alike and the holes were in fair places.

* * *

Harry Nettlebladt, the Worcester boy who went to the semi-finals in the State junior championship last week, is caddying for Billy Whitcomb in the championships.

* * *

Not a single Worcester municipal links golfer started in the tournament. With nineteen from the Country Club eligible, there surely must be a few players at the Worcester public links worth a ten rating.

MICHIGAN AGGIES SECURE BARRON

Lansing, Mich., July 6.—The Michigan Agricultural College athletic authorities have appointed Albert M. Barron, the old Penn State player, as football coach. The announcement of Barron's appointment was made by Chester L. Brewer, athletic director of the college.

JUDGE LANDIS AS WITNESS AGAINST SOX

New and Interesting Testimony Likely to Come in Baseball Scandal Hearing

Chicago, July 6.—Judge K. M. Landis, chief arbiter in baseball, will be called as a witness for the State in the trial of the "Black Sox" for the 1919 World's Series scandal, it was announced here today.

Lawyers for the defence and State meanwhile were arguing over technicalities which prevented the examination of venire men and official opening of the trial.

The last technical argument of the defence to delay the trial was presented by Attorney Harry Berger. He maintained the indictment was improper and demanded a bill of particulars. Two hundred veniremen were in the courtroom ready for service on the "Black Sox" jury.

Judge Landis, it was stated by the prosecution, had made a personal investigation of the baseball scandal and unearthed some interesting testimony. He will also bring into court baseball documents, "agreements" and contracts.

Judge Hugo Friend, who presided, ruled against the defence in its last efforts to avoid trial. He decided each of the defendants must stand trial on all twelve charges contained in the indictment. He also ruled the State must not prosecute each charge separately. Both decisions were victories for the prosecution.

The accused ball players had demanded that the State try them on each separate charge. The decision meant they will be tried on all eight charges at this trial.

EASTERN Y. C. FLEET HELD IN CALM

Gasoline and Towlines Likely to Figure in Run From Rockport to Portland

Rockport, July 6.—It looked as if the Eastern Yacht Club fleet would make the day's run to Portland by gasoline and towline today.

Only faint wisffs of air floated from off the tops of the granite quarries, and they seemed to fade away before they reached the famous Sandy Bay breakwater, inside of which the fleet rode at anchor all night.

As the long sleepy roll which tried the sea legs of the land lubbers yesterday dodged the ends of the breakwater and reached the harbor, all hands were literally "rocked in the cradle of the deep" from the time they anchored last night until they left this morning.

The course for the run today from the end of the breakwater to Portland lightship, was due northeast or 45 according to the naval regulations, a distance for the racers of 55.4 miles and 11 miles more to the night's anchorage at Peak's Island Harbor just below the city.

Commodore Sears and Fleet Captain Gray had the fleet auto carts, and signals were run up on the topmasts of the flagship for a start at 9 a. m.

Several more yachts came in during the night so that there were more than two dozen yachts of all descriptions which ran up their red and white answering pennants, and prepared for the day's run across the southern part of the Gulf of Maine.

The run tomorrow will be from Portland around Seguin Island and into the Sheepscote, with an anchorage at Boothbay.

WILSON SOUGHT TO BATTLE ROBINSON

Arena A. C. Would Stage Bout for Middleweight Title on July 15

The Arena A. C. is making a strong bid to arrange a bout in which Johnny Wilson, world's middleweight champion, will be one of the principals. Matchmaker Joe Goode would like to pit Wilson against George Robinson in a bout to be staged July 15. To date, however, he has been unable to come to terms with Marty Killilea, manager of the title holder.

Jim MacDonald, Robinson's manager, has been hot on the champion's trail. He now says that in the event that Wilson refuses to meet Robinson, that he will be prepared to match the protege for a contest with Jock Malone, who won over Pal Reed on July 4.

* * *

Marty Killilea, Wilson's manager, has loaned the following statement:

"For some time past there has been a feeling that Johnny Wilson will not defend his title in Boston. I beg to state that this is not true and, furthermore, I will sign articles for a fight here any time that the people feel that there is a logical opponent for the champion. Any time there is a match between any of the local middleweights it is always given a lot of cheap publicity by stating that the winner will be matched with the champion in the near future.

"This statement is false for two reasons. First, there is not a club here that has got nerve enough to pay the guarantee due a champion and I assure you that I will not make the executive as an excuse to dodge the issue.

* * *

"Second: Let us scan the local boys that are entitled to a chance at the title without making the contest a joke.

"There is Robson, Egan, Reed, Jamieson, Robinson and Tremblay. Tommy Robson has been beaten by Egan, Reed and Robinson. Egan has been beaten by Robinson and knocked out by Robson. Reed has been beaten by Wilson and on July fourth proved conclusively that he is not of championship caliber when he boxed Malone.

* * *

"This leaves Robinson, who while having beaten me in a decision and also claims the popular verdict in Montreal last Winter, I think you will agree with me that he is more than a middleweight.

"In closing I want to state once and for all if there is a club here that is willing to pay Wilson a sum of $10,000 and give him an option of 35 per cent. of the gross and con tedore any of the so-called challengers to make the weight asked by the champion, then Wilson is ready to defend his title.

"This, I think, puts the matter squarely up to the promoters and so-called challengers."

* * *

Charley Berry of Cambridge announces that Terry Martin, Providence bantamweight, is ready for action once more and that he is prepared to clash with any of our New England bantamweights.

* * *

Several clubs are trying to arrange for a meeting between Eddie Shevlin and Paul Doyle.

SAUCE AND SASS

By CHARLES E. PARKER.

THEY'RE WITH US AGAIN

The battle ended Saturday, at half past three o'clock—
We all know Dempsey won the fray, and won it by a block.
And yet it wouldn't seem that way to hear some bimboes talk.

It does not matter where you are—they grab you while you eat—
They nail you on your train or car—they hail you on the street—
They spot you coming from afar and won't let you retreat.

They tell you Dempsey won the fight—you'd think you didn't know—
They show you how he used his right—although you've learned that blow—
And then they add, with all their might, these world, "I told you so."

Some claim they named the man who'd win—you doubt, but acquiesce—
Some claim they named the round and grim if you recall such guess—
Some claim they named the punch—they din their claim 'til you say "Yes."

Perhaps it takes both sane and queer to make this old world go,
Tho reasons I have yet to hear for this—our saddest woe—
The bimboes with the wise-guy leer, who say, "I told you so."

* * *

"Well, I seen where one er dem O'Logys got in his dirty work in der big mill, after all," remarked A. Pugg, as he carefully replaced in his upper left vest pocket the Old Rope perfecto, which he habitually proffers and we habitually decline with regret, not unmarked with demerits.

"Yes, yes, go on," we urged.

* * *

"It ain't Sike O'Logy, like you says. It's Astor O'Logy, what musta been named after 'at welt'y gent over in New York."

"You undoubtedly have reference to astrology, the science of the stars," we ventured.

* * *

"What I reads don't say nuttin' about no stars, 'tough it springs a line about a moon what Carp owns," explained Pugg. He then added, "It seems dis Astor O'Logy was mixed up in a plant to trim Carp."

"You must have misread the term," we interrupted. "Are you sure you did not mistake the word planet for plant? A planet is another name for a star and the science of astrology teaches that such heavenly bodies control our destiny."

* * *

"Aw, here's de stuff, what I copped from de paper," said Pugg, at the same time offering a sheet of paper on which was scrawled, "She decidently the astrologist added that Carpentier's moon affected his planet Venus, which Saturday prevented any chance of the challenger being successful."

"How intensely interesting," we remarked.

* * *

Pugg re-read his note.

"Oh, perfectly so, on'y I don't get it," he said. "First off," he continued, "I hain't heard no one say Carp owned de moon before an' next off, if it ain't a plant dey's talking erbout, how kin dis Venus figger? I seen a pitchure av her once, an' she don't have no arms, but stands sort a leanin' over wit her mout' half open, like she wants some one ter feed her, or maybe she was askin' some Jane to hook up her dress, what's fallin' off. An' anyways, what's 'at stuff got ter do wit a championship mill in Jolzee?"

We frankly admitted we possessed not the slightest data on that issue, which seemed to please him, for he remarked, "I'm tinkin' it's de bunk myself."

* * *

"Well, anyways," he added, as he seemed about to leave, "I s'pose yer seen where Jack took de Frog like I said he would, aintcher?"

"Yes," we answered, "and vice versa."

"Vice is worser? What's bitin' yer?" demanded my seemingly aroused acquaintance. "Yer ain't went and fell for none o' dis reform bunk shits I seen yer has yer?"

* * *

"Not vice is worser," we corrected, "but vice versa," and we sought to make plain the meaning of the term.

"Did you not," we inquired, "assort in your inimitable and most extraordinary vernacular that Jack took the Frog?"

"Shure," he agreed, "I said all but ten big words."

"Well, then," we continued, "if you were to make such assertion conversely, or vice versa, in the same vernacular, you would say, would you not, 'The Frog took Jack'?"

* * *

"Aw, I getcher, now," grinned Pugg. "Yer mean 'at he took de two hun'ered grand what was comin' on his end of de purse."

We nodded.

"'At ain't half bad, leavin' out 'at vice is worser stuff," he mused as he turned to go. "I tink I'll spring 'at on de gang. Dey'll tink I'm suckoo when I say, 'I seen where Carp took our Jack.'"

PITY POOR JACK! AUTO SEIZED, MUST WALK

Sheriff Gathers in Champion's $18,000 Roadster as Result of Movie Litigation

New York, July 6.—Jack Dempsey has to walk home.

His $18,000 automobile in which he usually transports himself from place to place has been seized and whisked away to parts unknown by officers representing Sheriff Knott of New York county. The seizure was made on an order issued by the Sheriff's Court ordering Knott to take possession of any property belonging to Jack Dempsey. The order was issued in connection with the litigation over the photoplay, "Dare-Devil Jack," in which the champion appeared, in the courts of Batavia, N. Y.

The first piece of Dempsey property the sheriff's officers beheld was the big automobile standing in front of the Biltmore Hotel. The chauffeur was told to get out and the car was driven off.

FIGHT CRITICS MADE HIT WITH CARPENTIER

New York, July 6.—American boxing fans and flatic critics have made a favorable ang lasting impression on Georges Carpentier.

Carpentier was the guest of honor at a dinner last night at which a score of visiting British and French sporting writers sat around the table with members of the American press as the guests of James Wright Brown, proprietor of the Editor and Publisher.

Lucky? Why, man, I'm the Human Horseshoe!

I CERTAINLY was born
UNDER A lucky star,
FOR INSTANCE the time
I HOOKED my bonds,
TO PLAY the market,
ON A sure thing tip,
AND BOUGHT Slippery Ellum,
AT SEVENTY-TWO,
FOR A healthy rise,
AND FOR seven days,
I HUGGED the ticker,
AND COULDN'T sleep,
ONCE IT jumped two points,
AND I walked on air,
AND THAT very day,
I SAW a sign,
IN A cigar stand,
THAT SAID "Satisfy,"
IT GAVE me a hunch,
TO BE satisfied,
WITH WHAT I'd got,
AND NOT hog the deal,
SO I phoned my broker,
TO SELL me out,
AND THE very next day,
SLIPPERY ELLUM slipped,
TO FIFTY-FIVE.
SO NOW I've gotten,
BACK MY bonds,
AND BABY'S got new shoes.
AND NOW my regular smokes,
ARE THE cigarettes,
THAT "SATISFY."

WHENEVER you get that "Satisfy" hunch, play it. Steer straight for the nearest stand and invest in Chesterfields. This combination of fine Turkish tobaccos, blended with Burley and Domestic leaf, will give you a new measure of cigarette enjoyment. You're in luck from that day on.

FINANCE AND BUSINESS

—By E. C. Forbes

I learned something from watching Jack Dempsey fight. I had never seen a fight before, and have no anxiety to see one again. Exactly what I got out of the exhibition, however, is needed today by the majority of men in the business world, both employers and workers.

* * *

Before the world championship battle, other fights were staged. I noticed that in most cases when these second-rate fighters got into close grips, when they were in a "clinch" and had little or no room to do effective work, they didn't try to fight at all, but simply waited until they got foot free.

Dempsey, on the other hand, won his fight during the "clinches." Although he had to keep himself thoroughly guarded when in these tight places, he had only, according to experts, about six inches of play for his arms, he kept battling his opponent every instant, now on the heart, now on the stomach, now on the back of the neck, now on the face. It was palpable to even a novice like myself that this battling-ram method, when in close grips, was certain to wear out Carpentier. Dempsey appeared to be more scientific, more agile, and much faster when there was plenty of freedom for action, but, when he got into grips he didn't take to pounding like Dempsey.

* * *

Now, as I sat watching this exhibition I couldn't but feel that most of us are today in a tight place. Most of us are in very close grips with our duties. Business appears to be in the "clinch" stage. Because of conditions there does not seem to be much opportunity for effective action. Nearly everybody is waiting for the dead-lock, or "clinch" to end.

* * *

Why not try to adopt Dempsey's winning tactics?

Why not utilize every ounce of our strength to accomplish something even though we find ourselves in an extremely tight place and sorely handicapped?

Why not keep battering away with the determination that the new World's Champion fighter exercised when he found himself in a tight place?

* * *

Of course, there are obstacles. Of course, to next to nothing can be accomplish big results during this dead-lock. Capital and credit are scarce. Commodities are unsalable. Production costs are high. Buyers are indifferent or worse. Competition is keen. Most markets appear to be overstocked. Pessimism has taken possession of nearly everybody. The prevailing tendency is to wait for the dead-lock to end.

* * *

Yet it has been demonstrated by quite a considerable number of corporations and firms and individuals that big results can be achieved in face of these difficulties. Instances of this kind have already been cited and now I have just received another illustration. Illustration of what can be done when a proper amount of initiative and push and energy and steam is applied.

THE NATIONAL CASH REGISTER COMPANY HAS SOLD MORE CASH REGISTERS DURING THE LAST SIX MONTHS THAN IN ANY OTHER HALF YEAR OF ITS HISTORY.

* * *

Most concerns selling a product of this kind, would have simply concluded that things were so bad that there was no use trying to force the pace in inducing merchants and others to spend money. What did this triumphant organization do? It redoubled its efforts all along the line. Last year, for example, it set up a certain selling goal and, although this goal seemed impossible of attainment, it launched measures calculated to reach it.

Fourteen executives set off on a tour of all important centers in the eastern half of the United States and into Canada. They held meetings with the local salesmen inflated new zeal into them, enthusiasm. What salesmen in other cities were accomplishing, presented optimistic facts about what the company had been able to achieve in the first five months of the year, pumped into them fresh and forceful selling arguments and otherwise fired them with pep.

After each day's strenuous work of this kind, the fourteen executives utilized their nights to travel to other cities.

Of course, all previous June records were smashed.

And the company is confident that 1921 will prove a banner year in its long history.

* * *

The head of a large concern, manufacturing food products, told me yesterday that by lowering prices, by intensifying their selling campaign and by advertising aggressively, they had been able to come through all this period of general dullness with flying colors. Both volume of business and profits compare very favorably with any pre-war year.

* * *

Several automobile companies have secured equally satisfactory results by adopting similar methods. In the textile industry like records have been achieved in quite a few instances. A concern selling office appliances told me yesterday that, while other companies in this line were falling behind, it's business was larger than ever—solely because of the dynamic efforts exerted and the faith that it could be done. Certain insurance companies, I understand, are eclipsing all their former records.

* * *

Yes, most of us are fighting in a "clinch" at present. We are apt to feel hand-tied and foot-tied—and pursed-tied. But, what is here said, demonstrates that "IT CAN BE DONE."

MEXICAN PETE MAKES THREE POINT GAIN

Whole List Responds to an Upward Movement by Doheny Oils

By W. H. ROSS.
Financial Editor.

Stocks were strong in New York at noon, most of the gains being on account to the second hour, which was led by Mexican Petroleum. By far most of the forenoon Mexican Petroleum was showing more than three points gain. It had ranged from 87¾ to 97½. Pan-American was up nearly three points at mid-day. The whole list responded to the advance of these issues.

Kelly-Springfield and Atlantic Coast Line were up two points. Call money opened at 5½ per cent. Fractional gains were made. There was plenty of demand sterling being offered at 4.71 cents at $4.71¾.

HAD A WEAK START.

The market started had a weak opening, prices declining a little on contracted trading. Mexican Petroleum was the most prominent. It sagged almost three points within half an hour after the opening. Pan-American was also weak, selling a point below the previous close. Studebaker and U. S. Rubber. They had climbed from two to more than four points.

MADE A WEAK START.

The market started had a weak opening, prices declining a little on contracted trading. Mexican Petroleum was the most prominent. It sagged almost three points within half an hour after the opening. Pan-American was also weak, selling a point below the previous close. But sugars improved quickly and were strong and active up late in the morning. Covering of shorts and a little buying from the outside caused the upward movement.

LITTLE DONE IN STEELS.

Steels were quiet at the outset and had little they advanced until they had made small gains. Crucible Steel was conspicuous by being the best. U. S. Rubber was strong. Studebaker was the most active motor, dropping nearly a point and subsequently showing a fractional gain. Rails were too torpid for comment. Sinclair Oil and Sears-Roebuck was a weak specialty and General Asphalt and International Paper were also strong. The general market is heavily oversold and bears at this moment would find more difficulty than ever than to extend commitments. Selling pressure is now confined to the most urgent liquidation as regards them. The small volume of transactions is regarded as a sign that the period of liquidation has spent its force. Lower money rates are now expected. It is reported that plenty of call money was available yesterday outside of the exchange at 5 per cent.

MORE TRAFFIC IS HELPING RAILROADS

Spillane Says They Must Make Good Now or Face Government Operation

By RICHARD SPILLANE.

Philadelphia, July 6.—Semi-officially the railway executives declare that, with all the savings possible to make as a result of wage reductions and other economies, it will be very difficult for the railroads to earn the $475,000,000 necessary to meet their fixed charges next year.

Therefore, it is added, there can be no general reduction in freight and passenger charges this year, and the best the roads can do is to readjust rates on the existing level to remove inequalities.

Not until the reports come in of the July business of the railroads will the country have a basis on which to gauge the situation.

SHOULD SHOW BETTER.

The railroads, broadly speaking, made little above operating expenses in the first six months of the year, largely the wage increases which came effective. The month's returns should reflect not only this feature, but a better statement as to operation compared with previous months of the year. July is usually one particularly true of passenger traffic. Various Eastern lines report record breaking business for the early days of July. The rush to mountain and seashore has been remarkable, and Eastern lines picked up a little money on the Dempsey-Carpentier fight.

If the railroads are to meet fixed charges for the year they must earn above expenses during the remaining July what ordinarily they expect to garner in the full twelve months.

AS TO RATE REDUCTIONS.

The declaration of the executives that no general reduction of rates can come this year is open to question. If, from now on, the returns show a pronounced increase in net there will be an insistent demand for lower rates.

Transportation is not a privileged branch of industry. It is a fact that practically all other industries the railroads have been treated generously. Freight rates are up more than 100 per cent. from the 1914 level and passenger rates 40 per cent.

There are considerable economies possible in the railroad business which, for various reasons, never have been introduced. They range from common sense terminals to standardization of equipment and a sound system of financing. The usual attitude of a railroad chief executive is opposition to most of railroad methods is like that of the Mexican peon toward the hole in the roof. Only when it rains he cannot repair it, and when the weather is fine he sees no need of bothering about it.

MUST MAKE GOOD NOW.

Today the railroad chiefs admit many things could be done to effect economies, but they are doubtful that can they do them without money. When they come to Washington for a loan to suggestions because they saw no need of bothering themselves particularly.

The railroads have to make good now or they are likely to come under Government operation for a time. They have had every assistance which could possibly be given and Stocks of goods throughout the country are low. They must be moved. Wages are down. The probability of decided activity, from 15 to 20 per cent. better, during the next few months is somewhat certain. Construction reports throughout the country are more cheerful than for a considerable time, building than at this time last year.

Watch for the July earnings of the railroads. If they are good for a full year a decided sentimental effect. The railroads must prosper or the efficiency or the whole nation suffers. The full returns for the month will not be in until well along in August, but the returns of the principal trunk lines will tell the tale.

PRICES

now favor the investor more decisively than for a generation.

Just the moment when the market will definitely favor good for a long up-swing cannot be accurately predicted.

But whether one buys for investment yield, for long-pull market appreciation, or for quick turn profit—there can be no question that prices are favorable.

What to buy and how to buy are therefore the important questions of the moment.

We have a Market Letter and other information that may help you.

Local Prices Improve in Dull Trading; Curb List Works Downward

The Boston market followed New York during the morning, opening weak, but afterwards becoming strong. It was dull and narrow, however. Very little interest was shown. In some stocks and local followers of the big market seemed to take casual interest in all excepting oils. Point gains were made by Boston & Maine common, Utah Old Dominion and United Drug preferred, while Boston & Maine 6's advanced 2½ and United Drug common 2. Point losses were sustained by Massachusetts Gas, Calumet & Arizona, United Fruit and Wickwire. Calumet & Hecla and Michigan Investment receded two points.

Fractional gains were made by New Haven, United Shoe, Maverick, National Leather, Swift & Co. and Superior & Boston. Issues to recede a little were American Woolen preferred, Mohawk and Gray & Davis.

CURB MARKET WEAKENED.

The Curb was weak during the turgid start and was active only on the decent. Trading was as restricted as it was dull. Gains of a point or more in the only issue to show any life in early trading. Activity was spurred by 37 cents and Verde Mines had lost an opening gain of a cent.

HISTORIC FINANCIAL NOTES.

The Massachusetts bank commissioner has issued a call for reports of condition of State banks and trust companies as of June 30.

It is reported from Chicago that Swift & Co. have not considered new financing and none will be necessary to take care of the $25,000,000 Notes due August 1.

Allen Arnold has retired from the Boston Stock Exchange firm of Allen Arnold & Co. Frederick H. Stone of the New York Curb and the East Butte Copper Co. sells today at an extended trip to Europe. He will return about the middle of September.

Plans are under way to reduce salaries when wage cuts go into effect.

The Massachusetts Copper Export Association has sold 8,000,000 pounds of copper metal and half of that amount was disposed on the last day of June, it is reported.

The Laurel Lake Mills has increased its capital from $500,000 to $600,000 through issue of 2,000 $ per cent. cumulative preferred.

CLAIMS FRAUD BY SECRET TRUST

New Yorker Sues Boston Man Here Charging He Deprived Him of Profits

Charging that he has been defrauded by a secret trust created purposely to deprive him of his rights, Richard B. Constantine of New York has brought suit in the suffolk County Superior Court against W. Robert Montgomery.

The complaint alleges that in 1919 Constantine and Montgomery, then a teller in the Prudential Trust Company, organized the American Discount Corporation with a capital of $250,000.

It was agreed, the complaint adds, that each should share equally in the profits, but that later Montgomery by the creation of a secret trust composed of former State Treasurer Charles L. Burrill, Seth T. Gano, Lee George, Aristides Melendez and Henry Friedman, succeeded in depriving him of his just share in the concern.

The case will come up for hearing Monday in the equity session.

:-: HAPPENINGS IN THE WORLD OF MOTION PICTURES :-:

By FRIEDA DAVIS.

ANOTHER movement is on foot to transplant the centre of the motion picture industry in the East instead of the West coast, California has been "shot to pieces"—by cameras—from north to south and east to west. Every bit of the short film has figured on the screen and has represented nearly every country in the world. Every hill and dale has played its part in quantities of films and the fans are beginning to recognize "locations." Harold Lloyd is seen cavorting around in the same bit of landscape that served but week as the croquet lawn of the King of Delphvia.

Florida has already been advertised as a splendid place to build studios. Long Island is filled with huge buildings of the Eastern studios of big producers. They feel that it would be far simpler to build other buildings in the South and commute from New York to Florida within a few hours than have to cross the continent.

Miami, Florida, may yet becomes the film colony of the United States. Glenn H. Curtiss, famous for aeroplanes, is president of a new corporation that is being established in Hialeah, on the outskirts of Miami. These new studios will occupy a 140-acre tract on the Miami canal and will be used to rent to producers who want to send companies South for scenes. This is somewhat on the order of the Brunton Studios in Hollywood, where Mary Pickford and other independent stars make their productions.

GLADYS HULETTE

GLADYS HULETTE has been chosen as leading woman for Richard Barthelmess in his first independent production. "Tol'able David," Exterior, for this picture is already been filmed in the Virginia mountains.

ESTELLE TAYLOR VACATIONS.

ESTELLE TAYLOR, too, is all for a little change of surroundings. After a strenuous Winter in Fox productions she packed up her things and set out on a motor trip through New England.

Eventually she will stop in Maine to spend several weeks resting for the coming season. Miss Taylor has just finished work in the Charles Brabin special, "Footfalls," which is heralded as "something truly different," the battle cry of all producers.

MARIE WALCAMP, the dare-devil of the movies and serial queen of fame, has signed up with Lois Weber to appear in a series of the latter's popular productions on the tribulations of married life.

LOS ANGELES OBJECTS TO FILM.

BOSTON isn't the only city to object to the film of a Nation," after all. The Hub of the universe has been figuring in the dailies all over the country in regard to the refusal of the city to permit the Griffith picture to be shown here some weeks ago.

Now word comes out of the West that Los Angeles, too, has its objectors. The film was withdrawn for an indefinite engagement between the producers and the Colored People's Protective League under which the latter promised to withdraw their support or the censorship bill before the Legislature and a better understanding that "The Clansman" would never be shown in California.

GARETH HUGHES has signed up to play the leading role in the George B. Baker feature, "The Hunch", adapted to the screen from a story which appeared in the Popular Magazine.

Max Linder Heads Bill at the Park	THE French Charlie Chaplin's long-heralded comedy, "Seven Years' Bad Luck," has come. Max Linder heads the bill at the Park Theatre this week in a film in which he stuffs seven years' hard luck into twenty-four hours.

Quite the best action of the picture takes place between Max, his butlers and his maids and his fiancee's butler and maid. Max's butler manages to break the large cheval glass in splinters. Max wakes and demands the cause of the disturbance. For one reel the comedy revolves around trains; the villain tries to keep Max from discovering the accident.

After that the story settles down into the usual thing—a hero chased through, under and around trains; the villain trying to win the heroe's girl, and the hero appearing in time to vindicate herself foil the villain and marry the girl.

Max has the trick of keeping one constantly amused, but only amused. We expect a comedian to keep us howling with tears, but five reels of chuckling should satisfy any movie fan.

"WOLVES OF THE NORTH."

THE COMPANION picture is Universal's production of "Wolves of the North," a story written and directed by Norman Dawn. Mr. Dawn had a remarkably good idea when he wrote the story and he held to it manfully when he directed the film, but he was not properly backed up by the continuity writer, Wallace Clifton, and the star, Eva Novak. Neither of these seemed to realize the possibilities in Dawn's idea and plot.

Right here let me voice a strenuous objection to the exploiting of Eva Novak as a star. She has neither the looks nor the appeal to the writer in any role. Furthermore, I find many acreing with me. She is not only a poor actress—we can easily forgive that—but her looks are poor, but they have something to pull them out—personality, good looks, pep, and so on. Miss Novak, too, has personality—but it seems intensely distasteful. "Here comes the peevish, peerless grouch," I once overheard a woman say to her friend at a showing of Miss Novak's forthcoming film was flashed on the screen. All wishes to rent; terms to suit. Liberty Bonds accepted, full face value given. Open every evening.

LOUISE GLAUM

LOUISE GLAUM HEADED EAST.

LOUISE GLAUM is working overtime in Hollywood on her next Parker Reed production in order to find time for a flying trip in New York for a short vacation and shopping tour. She has all her plans for the visit to the minute mapped out, with the Broadway Theatres and the Fifth avenue shops holding first place.

GLADYS GRANGER, playing second feminine lead in "Cappy Ricks," starring Thomas Meighan, was chosen by Harriet Pitcher a few years ago to represent a type of young American woman. Latter she posed for Howard Chandler Christy, James Montgomery Flagg and other famous Illustrators.

WAR ON SOUTH SHORE 'PAJAMA PARTIES'

Hingham Court Sounds Warning to Midnight Revelers; Nine Men Fined

Midnight "pajama parties," drinking bouts and nightly carousals, which the authorities allege are staged by residents of Boston clubs renting cottages on the South Shore, have got to stop.

Judge Pratt, in the Hingham Court, after fining nine Boston men charged with disturbing the peace at Lake Monponsett announced that he would sentence the next batch of offenders to jail, and he advised the defendants to "pass his words along."

The police of the various Summer resorts on the South Shore have been deluged with complaints protesting against revelry at the cottages rented by clubs. As a result they have started a crusade against the alleged abuses perpetrated by the vacationists and week-end visitors.

The first victims to fall into the crusade net were taken in two raids by the police of the town of Hanson at Monponsett.

Youth and Age--The Changing American Woman

These Pictures Are Reproduced From a Story in COSMOPOLITAN, Upon Which This Editorial Is Based

Copyright, 1921, Star Company

The Old-Fashioned Mother and New-Fashioned Daughter

Basil King has written, James Montgomery Flagg has illustrated, for Cosmopolitan Magazine, a story, "The Empty Sack," that tells of American life today, American women, the daughters of THIS generation, the mothers of another.

This picture by Montgomery Flagg shows the mother whose heart has been broken, illusions dispelled and hope ended by a life of sorrow, hardship and disappointment ending in her husband's death.

The girl, as different from the mother in looks as the flower is different from the earth whence it springs, has made her way, in her own way.

Everything about her is different from the mother—from the look in her eyes to the high heels on her shoes.

The mother has lived ONE life, the daughter another. Neither understands the other or could understand. There are millions of such mothers and daughters today. Wealth produces them, poverty also.

The mother in this picture has seen her husband old, worn out, discharged from his work, then die in despair after vainly hunting another job. The daughter has found her way in the artists' studios as model, concentrating on her dress and complexion, things her mother never did, except in earliest girlhood.

The daughter goes her way, mother can only wonder, and wait for time to pass.

The girl in the picture has married secretly the son of the man who discharged her father. The boy's mother knows it, and wants to be rid of such a daughter-in-law—who is, at least, as good as her son.

The daughter, posing as a model, has been painted, nude, by a young artist with whom she is really in love. The mother-in-law buys the picture that her son may see it and get rid of the unwelcome daughter-in-law. In the picture the face is changed, but not the body. The son and husband would easily recognize that. Thus reasons the mother-in-law.

In this story of modern American families and complications there is a son, brother of the girl. And here HE is.

The Son Who Stole for His Mother, Shooting the Detectives

This brother, Teddy, is the American boy who has learned, perhaps from his sister, perhaps from other boys, that old-fashioned ideas are foolish, and that you must GET what you want.

Employed as clerk, he has been systematically robbing the man whose son his sister married. This he has done to help his mother "keep the family together."

When the detectives start after him he decides that he would rather kill himself than suffer the humiliation of handcuffs and rather kill the detectives than do either. As he looks in this picture, through a hole in the wall, he sees two men fall, as he shoots them.

"The Empty Sack," by Basil King, is typical of the powerfully written and powerfully illustrated novel of American life that has given COSMOPOLITAN MAGAZINE more than a million circulation. This story showing, as in a mirror, distinct phases in American life, and without preaching, is a powerful sermon. Poverty, patient suffering, in one generation, disappointment and resignation, the mother represents all that.

The illustrations, by far the best in this country, with which COSMOPOLITAN MAGAZINE adds power to its stories, emphasize again the fact that "nothing reaches the brain as quickly as a picture." When you SEE this picture of the boy and his revolver, you KNOW the rest of it.

This story by Basil King, with many others, is in the COSMOPOLITAN MAGAZINE, now to be found on the newsstands. The COSMOPOLITAN should have a circulation far above the million that it has, for it exceeds other magazines as distinctly as the modern magazine exceeds the old magazine type, with its woodcuts.

Think of Bolshevism in the Mediterranean

That Would Make West Europe Worry

Copyright, 1921, Star Company

The French and English have troops and ships at and near Constantinople. They are "supervising" the Turks who, according to Lloyd George, are committing their usual UNUSUAL atrocities in their war with the Greeks.

In diplomatic language France asks England what is going to be done about Constantinople in case Kemal, the Asiatic leader, marches on the city.

What worries France and England, too, is the danger of Russian Bolshevism which is back of Kemal. If Russia should get the Dardanelles it would not be comfortable for Italy, France and other nations with shores on the Mediterranean. England, it is true, has Gibraltar and the narrow passage, "easily protected." But German submarines went through it going East. Russians might go through, going West.

The intelligence of English statesmen is shown in her effort to make peace and establish commercial relations with Russia. Our country, governed by the kind of financial intelligence stupid enough to buy the Czar's bonds, first helped the allies fight Russia, with whom we had no quarrel, then backed away as a little boy runs when he has helped other little boys to stone a drunkard.

France has remained at war with Russia, hoping the impossible, to recover a just debt of thirty billion francs that Russia ought to pay, but will not pay. It might cost France much more than thirty billions if Russia came out through the Dardanelles.

The wise plan would be for the allies to unite and help Russia get rich. There is nothing like money, luxury and self-indulgence to dull the edge of sharp radicalism.

Vitamines, Milk, Vitality and Health

Learn How Milk Brings Health to Young and Old

Years ago when the mass of people labored out of doors, milk was their principal food. They led unpampered lives and were guided mostly by instinct. They knew nothing about vitamines, but milk satisfied their hunger and refreshed their bodies—a fact to them sufficient. So they were healthy and lived to be very old.

Now in our modern days we have countless concoctions that masquerade as foods, indigestible and totally lacking in nourishment. We are misguided by our instincts. We eat foolish things and are starving. Our tired bodies are never refreshed. We live a brief existence.

As children we acquired appetites that grew with us—we're just grown-up kids, and the boy's remarks to his stomach are just as suited to the man:

What's the matter with you—ain't I always been your friend?
Ain't I been a pardner to you? All my pennies don't I spend
In getting nice things for you? Don't I give you lots of cake?
Say, stummick, what's the matter, that you had to go and ache?

That's just the matter—lack of proper food to build our bodies and sustain us—insufficient milk, with its vitamines. Back to nature we must go. The bulk of modern food is totally lacking in the necessary elements that make good blood, sinew and bone. Milk supplies these elements in abundance.

Dr. E. V. McCollum tells us that experimental animals die when vitamines are lacking in their food. Nutrition experts tell us that human beings must have the vitamines and that milk supplies them best.

There are plenty of examples of what milk will do. Dr. William R. P. Emmon, whose nutrition classes are spreading throughout the country, reports many "cures." Mrs. Ira Couch Wood tells of the wonderful accomplishments in Chicago. Rest and fresh milk change weaklings into sturdy youngsters—the most defective children are brought back to health within a few months.

Why not do it at home, instead of waiting for the establishment of nutrition classes? Why can't we consult our physician, find out what the defects are, and set about to correct them? It is not a class matter; it is just as much a menace among the rich as among the poor. It isn't a question of prices. Milk is the cheapest real food we have.

It is a serious matter and a personal one. We must see that the children get their milk. The life-giving power of vitamines, vita meaning life, is most plentiful in milk. More milk in the diet means health, strength and happiness to youngsters. More milk for grown-ups means greater mental and physical vigor, a longer and more useful life. Milk is our only perfect food. Let us use more milk by all means. Let us drink milk and eat milk in every possible form.

"A quart a day the doctors say."

Clear the Path of Business

Senator Smoot, able authority, estimates that a tax of 1 per cent. on all goods, wares or merchandise sold or leased in the United States, with an exemption of $6,000 in every case, would yield fifteen thousand million dollars a year.

He reckons that such a revenue, together with that now derived from the income tax, the inheritance tax, the amount collected at ports of entry, and the proceeds of "a normal tax upon business," would pay all that will be required to maintain our government and take care of the 2½ per cent. sinking fund.

By the phrase "a normal tax on business" we assume he means repeal of the excess profits tax, which invites excess prices, and the assessment of taxation upon undistributed net earnings of corporations sufficient to prevent individuals and partnerships from escaping the income tax by incorporating.

The purpose of the $6,000 exemption is obviously political. It is calculated to appease small tradesmen and farmers.

But for the difficulty in collecting the sales tax on small individual transactions we should oppose any exemption. It is bad in principle.

Since the purpose of taxation is to sustain the government, all should share the burden.

However, the important thing now is to free business so that it will prosper, doing away with unemployment, substituting hope and happiness for dread, and setting before enterprise new goals of high achievement.

The Red, White and Blue

By Dr. Charles Fleischer

As a patriotic citizen, you ought to be ready to join in almost any slogan that includes the Red, White and Blue.

By the same token, you ought to join every red-blooded citizen in preventing that cheer from degenerating into a jeer of the red, white and blues!

The blues don't belong to our country. The red and the white are all right, but the blues—well, they just don't belong.

Anything But Downhearted

And, as a nation, we are anything but downhearted! Are you?

We are too close to the primal call sent out by the continent to a new people (the everlasting challenge of Nature to Man), to be in any but a militant mood, heart within and head held high!

We are laughing aloud in our courage. We are ready to greet the unseen with a cheer. We have all the exuberance of confident youth.

The world war has ushered us somewhat. But we are undaunted. When the devil was sick, the devil a monk would be. But we are not ready to don the cowl.

On the contrary, we are just young enough to be moved to a bit of bravado. If the air looks a bit blue we shall just sing a little louder, as we go about our business!

Don't mistake our voting for the 18th Amendment. We had not really become so sober as that prohibitory vote might suggest. We were under a spell of spiritual enthusiasm, and—

Well, the war was intoxicating enough, so that we could, at the time, afford to dispense with alcoholic excitation.

Nor should we misjudge the apparent readiness of State after State to pass laws for the censorship of motion pictures. That does not indicate America's intention to take to prunes and prisms.

* * *

The Blue Brigade will carry things a bit too far—and then we shall have a healthful reaction towards normalcy in morals, even as the President has promised us economic normalcy.

After the eclipse of alcohol and screen, surely tobacco, coffee, tea, candy and—who knows?—love also will have to be legislatively forbidden—and then, if possible, successfully hidden!

By all means, especially by legislation, let us make hypocrisy the chief moral achievement of Anglo-Saxondom! Let us assume a virtue, if we have it not!

As Josh Billings would say, this is writ sarkastick!

Good and Wholesome

However, we can afford to be good-humored in our satire. We shall, doubtless, finally escape being made to seem much better than we are.

And that, because we really are good and wholesome at the heart of us—and we need no Blue Laws to cover us with a veneer of hypocritical pretense.

Our free young American spirit can be trusted to keep this people clean, without the false protection of Blue Laws. These represent not the general need or wish, but the unfaith of none-too-good, but painfully militant, minorities.

WATCH THE PENNIES

It is the same old story of disappointment that you can save so little as you look over the past year.

You think you have been economical, but why could you not keep to the saving plan you mapped out for the last year?

In some ways you have considered yourself actually penurious and felt you were denying yourself a great deal.

Then sometimes you have gone to the other extreme and been extravagant and foolish in your expenditure.

No saving is possible without self-denial.

You have not spent large sums at any one time, you are unable to see how it could result in such loss of savings, for each month the amount you have to lay away dwindles.

It is the small daily outlays that tell the story.

Ten, fifteen and thirty cents here and there.

The pennies count big when you spend even a few every day.

Letters to the Editor

Auto Licenses

Editor Boston American:

I read in your paper a long list of chauffeurs whose licenses had been revoked. I wonder if justice was done in each case. A chauffeur has no easy job in Boston, and it should not be made harder by the carelessness of others. We are all supposed to use due care in the exercise of our duties. A child of four years was killed on Main street, Charlestown. A child of six on Broadway, South Boston. Perhaps these drivers lost their licenses, which meant their living. Is it fair? Why should a child of four be on Main street unattended? Was the person who sent a child of six to a busy thoroughfare on an errand using due care?

Every driver should have a road test. A person under the influence of liquor or driving in a reckless manner deserves the full penalty of the law. If a driver is as he should be, and observing all the rules of the road, he has a right to expect, and should have, the protection of Mr. Goodwin's office, where they take his money and issue his license. I neither own nor drive an automobile, but believe in JUSTICE FOR ALL.

Aiding Disabled Soldiers

Editor Boston American:

I ran across your story in the Boston American about your obtaining government compensation for forty-two disabled soldiers—cases which had been lost in the maze of government red tape and the payment delayed and protracted as a consequence.

Your efforts in this connection are indeed worthy of commendation. It is splendid work. The disabled soldiers of Massachusetts and elsewhere surely can look to you as one of their friends these days when the public seems inclined to forget the sacrifices they made during the war. For them the war is still on and rather than abating the assistance which should be rendered to them, it should be continued with redoubled vigor. Oh, for more of your calibre. LEO A. SPILLANE.
